

SNOW COMING — Feeders are now being stocked up in preparation for a long hard winter. This picture taken during our last snowfall shows sparrows fueling up during storm conditions.

BLUE STREAK — Frightened by some unknown reason, a blue-jay takes off from feeder for the safety of pine tree cover. These birds spark up an otherwise dull landscape with their coloration of blue and flashing white patches. (Staff Photos by MacLeod)

Fabulous Atomic Uses Predicted For Future

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spec-

ular new peacetime applications of atomic energy in the next

20 years, both on earth and in space, were forecast Sunday

by Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

They range from a possible

maneuvered expedition by nuclear rocket to the planet Venus or

Mars to conceivable limited colonization of polar regions on earth.

But Seaborg also declared that

unless a controlled ban is

achieved on nuclear weapons

tests, the same two decades will also see the development of "pre-

etty frightful" nuclear weapons

— weapons very advanced over what we have now.

Presumably including both the

United States and the Soviet Union in his weaponry forecast, Seaborg said in an interview that:

In a world lacking a test ban,

the next 20 years would see the creation of weapons having

"much larger (explosive) yields

per weight of material" than even

now's fearsome nuclear arms.

Two Decades Ahead

The 6-foot-3 Nobel Prize winner

was asked to take a look ahead

at the next two decades at a time

when the AEC is planning to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the achievement of the world's first

controlled self-sustaining chain reaction. That event, achieved in Chicago on Dec. 2, 1942, started

the first 20 years of nuclear progress, the AEC says.

Aside from forecasts involving

applications of nuclear energy,

Seaborg reiterated some predictions he has made about possible

spectacular developments in other fields, due to the fast pace of technology.

The next 20 years, he says,

might see the development of paper to the extent that "durable

language automatically . . . and

"great progress in predicting

storms, earthquakes, and other

natural hazards."

In the atomic field — possibly

within 20 years — the AEC chief

said he envisions:

"We'll be well advanced in

the use of nuclear power in space

both for propulsion of rockets and for auxiliary power within orbit-

ing satellites.

Planet Journeys

"Around the year 1982, we will have already made, or be seriously

planning, a manned journey to one of the near planets (Venus or Mars).

"And we'll be using nuclear energy rather routinely in satellites

as an auxiliary source of (nonpro-ulsive) electric power.

"For example, by then, we'll probably be able to have worldwide — television broadcasts relayed by satellites brought

directly into homes instead of the present indirect method."

2. Portable, compact, yet powerful nuclear reactors for furnishing both electric power and heating of buildings might open up

polar regions of the antarctic and

arctic to limited colonization.

3. Continued and ever-broadening spectacular applications of radioactive isotopes to diagnosis and treatment in medicine and to the

exploration of the mechanism of disease. Also, great gains in agriculture through the use of iso-

topes, including improved crops.

4. Superlong-lasting batteries for automobiles charged with nuclear-

generated electricity — and possibly even "fuel cells" for automobiles — that is, energy-producing

chemicals that could propel a car

for a certain period, then be revitalized at a nuclear power station while the car owner used a rental cell.

Area Youth, Shot While Hunting, Dies

JOSEPH TANIS, 12, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tanis, Johnsonville, was accidentally shot and killed while hunting with his father late Saturday afternoon. He died at 5:15 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Miller, Johnsonville, when he was carried by his father after the accident.

State Police, Easton barracks, said the accident happened at approximately 4:45 p.m. about 600 yards west of the Miller home, just off Mt. Bethel Township Road 165.

They added that the boy was walking in front of his father, who had just shot at a cock bird, when he apparently tripped over a bog which set off the shotgun he was carrying. The shot struck the youth in the center of the back.

Tanis picked the boy up and carried him toward the Miller home.

Two neighbors, J. Edwin Haycock and Larry Lohman, who saw Tanis coming across the field went to his aid. Lohman took the boy from his father's arms and carried him part way. Haycock relieved him and carried him into the Miller residence.

The boy was pronounced dead by Franklin H. Reed, Northampton County deputy coroner.

State Police conducting the investigation said Tanis was placed under heavy sedation. They returned to the scene of the accident and picked up the 16 gauge shotgun which put a hole two and a half inches in the center of the boy's body.

Laipple was traveling up a slight incline in the highway and rounding a curve in the road. Police said he failed to make the curve, continued straight, crashed into a utility pole and snapped it off at the ground, and continued until the car struck a tree and stopped.

State police will continue the investigation today.

"I am pleased to be able to advise you that I have requested our Division of State Parks to have one of their park planners visit this area at the earliest possible moment for the purpose of studying and reviewing the proposal. Bids For New 'Gap Postoffice Planned

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Recent developments in relation to the new post office building to be erected in Delaware Water Gap indicate advertisements for bids for the building will be circulated in December.

In a letter from Rep. Francis E. Walter, to Stephen R. Matos, secretary of the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce, Walter said that the advertisements would be ready "about the middle of December."

The site for the new building has been chosen at the corner of Shephard Ave. and Main St., opposite the existing post office.

J. E. Kenyon, real estate officer for the Philadelphia regional office, said that the Post Office Department holds an assignable option on the site.

Preliminary plans call for 2,523 square feet of interior area with adequate platform area and parking and maneuvering areas. Plans and specifications for the new building will be made available to prospective bidders.

The site option will be transferred to the successful bidder, who will purchase the land, construct the building and lease it to the Post Office Department on a long-term basis.

There are several basic designs that are used by the department. Each may be modified to the needs of the community based on the foreseeable future and with respect to the surrounding area and type of buildings.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day said that the new construction will have a beneficial economic impact on Delaware Water Gap by increasing the community's attractiveness for industry and commerce. In addition, the building program will provide jobs during the construction period.

Tobyhanna Section Seeks Resident Doctor, Dentist

TOBYHANNA — Residents of this Pocono Mountain community recently appealed for help in locating a doctor to move into the area and treat his sick.

The community has been without a doctor for the past 10 years. There has not been a dentist in the community since 1958.

The Lions Club recently asked the Philadelphia County Medical Society for help in locating a physician who will live and work among the residents.

Allen Pope, Lions Club president, said, "First things first. We must get the doctor, then we'll start looking for a dentist."

Until September, Mount Pocono, six miles away, had two physicians. Tobyhanna residents had become accustomed to driving there for medical care. However, one of the two physicians retired and moved to Florida. This threw more of a load on the other doctor.

There is a doctor in Gouldsboro, seven miles away, but he is employed by the Tobyhanna Army Depot, a mile out of the community, and is unable to spare much time in the town.

Miss Delling Is Bride Of Stephen Eskra

Angels — In an afternoon ceremony at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Harry C. Root on Saturday, November 17, at 2:30 p.m., Miss Ruth Delling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delling, of Blooming Grove, became the bride of Stephen Eskra, of Ledgeville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Eskra.

Attendees were Miss Nancy Eskra, sister of the bridegroom, and Donald Gillette, of Lake Ariel.

The Rev. Mr. Root, retired Methodist minister of the South Sterling Charge, officiated at the single ring ceremony.

Both the bride and bridegroom are employed at Hawley. They will make their home in Ledgeville.

Brownies Visit 'Grandmother' Of Their Troop

Newfoundland — The Brownies of Troop 252 presented their "Troop Grandmother," Mrs. Ida Megaw, of South Sterling, with a Thanksgiving basket, each sharing a little of their own Thanksgiving with her. Mrs. Josephine Wolkstein was in charge of the basket, and she and Mrs. Emil Wohlfahrt, brownie leader, presented it to Mrs. Megaw.

On the 85th birthday of their "grandmother," the brownies also presented her with a gift.

Measles have cut down the ranks of the troop, and there were many brownies among the missing when the roll was called this week at Southern Wayne Joint School. The girls are preparing to act out the brownie story, which Mrs. Phyllis Jones read to them last week.

Games were played during the session, including the Elephant Dance, Coochie Jar, Indian Chief, and Charades. Cookie permission slips were collected, as a preliminary to the cookie sale in February. Plans for Christmas hand-crafts were discussed.

Arrangements were made to furnish baskets for the Deaconess Home to be given to the needy at Christmas. The altar flowers will be cared for by Mrs. Earl Dennis for the month of December. Mrs. Homer Jones will assist with the Poconettes at Christmas.

The Christmas party will be held Dec. 19 at the church. Dollar gifts will be exchanged. The circle will be in charge of all arrangements. They had a display of hand-made gifts which they had made. THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

People galore, both friends and strangers, have been asking me about the unusual necklace I've been wearing the past several days with my 2.98 shift dresses from Cora Albertson's department. "Did it come from Wyckoff's?" they ask, and those who know me well also ask, "What did it cost?"

Since almost everything I own comes from Wyckoff's, the necklace naturally did, and it has a little story connected with it. Last week, Bill Wells, Carrie Rusk, Arlene Vaughn, Marlene Andrews, Doris Hinton and I journeyed into New York for our Kirby Block SPRING fashion show. Impressions we carried home had to do with the loveliness of the new Spring colors; and with the continued popularity of the shift. One of the most memorable segments of the show was devoted to Spring coats, worn over shift dresses in glorious prints color-keyed to the coat.

The models were almost unanimous in their selection of long chains or ropes to wear with these dresses ... but they did not show them looped and swinging down the front, or wound 'round the neck bib fashion. They wore them draped ... gracefully trailing to the side, and tied, perhaps, into the belt. That's why, the following morning, as I stood talking to Holt Wyckoff in his office, Doris, on the selling floor below, began making frantic motions in my direction. When I failed to understand what she meant, she bounced up the steps, removed the short necklace I was wearing, and wound a long chain of gold around me, catching it at the side, and letting it fall through my belt.

Everyone considered this quite an improvement over the more conservative way of wearing chains, and now I have varied it a bit. In order to "tie it in" with my earrings, I use a pin that matches the earrings to "secure" my drapery on my shoulder. Piercing both my dress and a link of chain, the pin eliminates the need to keep adjusting slippage.

There is nothing nicer for wear with knits than chains, and Marlene has a very heavy looking one of gold which she mates with bulky sweaters. It is probably very lightweight, but has a heavy, substantial look emphasized by the golden charms which dangle from it. Sometimes she wears it as a necklace. I like it even better when she wears it as a belt.

Strange, isn't it, that chains and ropes have been with us so long? When they first appeared (re-appeared) is actually the more correct word) a few seasons ago along with the sack dress, they were viewed as a passing whim. Now they seem to be even more ... probably because you can do so very much with them. One of our recent customers was wearing a rope of beads wound in and out through a rather large scarf that softened the neckline of a sweater—it looked most attractive too. Another woman of my acquaintance wears a doubled rope around the neck, lacing the free end through two slashes (meant for buttons) at the top of her jacket. It is quite different, and one looks twice, wondering whose idea it was. I'm willing to bet it was hers ... and if so she's clever.

Most chains and ropes are inexpensive. Some by Marvella are only 2.00. If you haven't try, why not join the "chain gang" today? Or help a friend get "on the ball" fashion-wise by "chaining" her for Christmas!

1963 Ford Falcon Has Sports Appeal

THE FORD Falcon for 1963 emphasizes sports appeal with five new models, new styling and a host of new features. The Falcon offers 17 model choices for 1963 — more than any other compact line in the industry.

New Falcon models, all in the sporty Futura series, include a four-door sedan and two convertibles. Sharply reduced maintenance features new for 1963 include 36,000-mile chassis lubrication interval (up from every 1,000 miles), elimination of the traditional 1,000-mile new car inspection and self-adjusting brakes.

Christmas Gifts Galore At Cyphers

WITH THE passing of Thanksgiving, it will be just a short time until Christmas is upon us ... and when it comes to Christmas "Gifting," you'll find Cyphers Electric, Bartonville, has a lot to offer.

Appliances have come to mean a lot at Christmas as they serve a two-fold purpose ... as an expression of love for the happy recipient as an initial gift and also for the reason that this gift keeps giving year in and year out, saving much hard work.

A G. E. dishwasher, for instance, will delight any lucky woman at Christmas but the real "payoff" is that she will have extra time to join the family at night when everyone is home.

A new G. E. clothes dryer will do the same thing but even more will protect her from getting colds that occur from hanging things out in cold weather.

For a gift to bring smiles to the faces of the whole family try a new General Electric stereo or color television. These popular gifts will tie your family circle together and bring many pleasant moments.

This Christmas, when you think of G. E. Appliances, think of Cyphers Electric, Bartonville. Now is the time to plan for that special gift and to have us lay it away for Christmas delivery!

said that, coupled with a 6,000-mile oil change interval, "This means that from the time a Falcon rolls out of the dealership, no routine maintenance is required for 6,000 miles — about six months for the average driver."

Power steering will be available as an option. Also available as an option is a fully-synchronized four-speed manual transmission.

The sports flavor of the 1963 Falcon line is reflected in a new Thunderbird - type roof for all sedans and all-around styling refinements that give all models a lower, speedier look. Interior appointments are tailored with luxury-car plushness. Falcon offers fifteen different performance levels through various engine, transmission and rear axle combinations.

The Falcon Futura Convertible and Sports Convertible models are designed to offer year-round, all-weather comfort with modern styling, luxurious appointments, high durability and economy of operation — all at a price substantially below conventional convertibles.

The electrically - powered top is styled to give the Futura convertible a sleek silhouette, lower than other Falcons and rakish in appearance whether the top is up or down. Full-width vinyl-upholstered front and rear seats are standard on the Futura Convertible with front bucket-type seats and a sports console standard on the Futura Sports Convertible.

The Thunderbird - inspired appointments are completed with a non-glare rear view mirror bonded to the windshield in Thunderbird fashion.

New for 1963, the Falcon Futura four-door sedan combines a sports flavor interior with the practicality of a family sedan. Like the other high-fashion Futura sedans, the four-door sedan offers cloth and vinyl interiors with color-keyed, nylon-rayon carpeting.

Outside, the Thunderbird - inspired roofline gives the car a sleek appearance with sharply defined highlights.

Now the Falcon, like the other members of the Ford family of cars, literally takes care of itself. The traditional 1,000-mile new car inspection has been eliminated and 36,000-mile chassis lubrication is standard.

The 36,000-mile figure also applies to change of radiator coolant, fuel filter and air cleaner element. Front wheel bearing lubrication is set at 24,000 miles, except on the van-type vehicles.

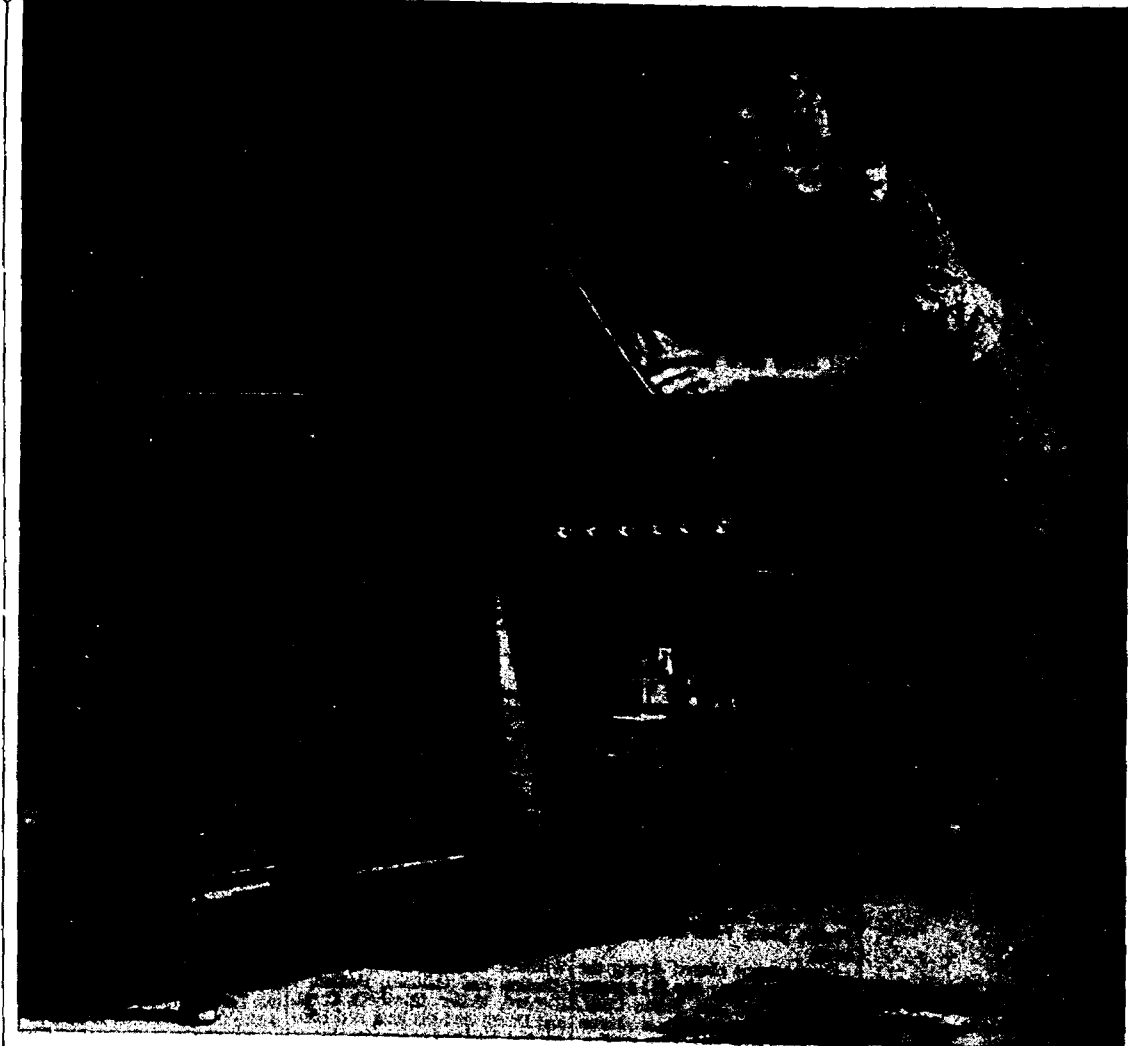

The improvement is made possible by upgrading a number of lubricants and many Falcon components including, among others, engine oil filter, valve train, clutch linkage, transmission, rear axles, steering linkage and ball joints.

Warm Colors Aglow At Design Show

NEW York's Decoration and Design Show is having a heat wave.

In this third annual exhibition, where over a hundred of America's leading interior decorators are represented, warm colors beam everywhere. In particular, one sees sunny combinations of yellow, orange and green.

Yellow ranges from pale lemon to deep gold and mustard. Green sometimes shimmers in bright emerald but seems to be favored in the warmer avocado and olives. Orange flames through rooms more abundantly than in any other year. Mainly used for accent - but in frankly large portions - it is paired to a soft tan, terracotta, bright and bold as the fruit or muted with gold and brown tones to a burnt orange.

While these colors predominate, other definite trends can be noted: For one, a revival of the rich wood-brown and russet hues, often paired with blue or ember red. A surprise of hot Persian pink, used even on walls, and combined with white, black and red. The emergence of a deep, muted cobalt or midnight blue which, instead of being coupled with greens and turquoises as in previous years, usually is punctuated by the new golds and copper. Slightly lighter blues, closer to Wedgewood, are seen, with white and buttercup yellow accessories.

The overall look is fanciful and fancy, with painted furniture in colors, white and gilt mixed with woods in profusion. Great dollops of white sparkle everywhere. To act as backdrop for the warm, vibrant colors, many walls are off-white, with beige or gray casts, or in pale tints, although some decorators feature citrus yellows, both lemon and lime and bronze-greens. Pure white is rare, except in instances where it is used in conjunction with deep-colored or bright walls. A smart exception is Ellen Lehman McCuskey's white-painted brick.

Remarkable effects are created by using many shades of the same color in a room. In one bedroom, for instance, greens range from a light spring fern to kelly, deep olive and green-gold. The effect, with white, is like a garden.

Since most colors are off-beat blends with a burnished golden cast, they seem to adapt themselves easily to the potpourri of furniture styles shown. These are of every conceivable period: Baroque, Regency, French, English, Victorian, Early American and a new stress on Mediterranean and Spanish. As has been the fashion for several years now, blending periods are mixed in the same room frequently for the contemporary look. Also, antiques and Chinese lacquered pieces in brick red, rust or black are scattered throughout. The bold, bright primary colors are reserved in the main for ultra-modern rooms, of which there are few.

These are the special areas of the rainbow you will probably be seeing a great deal in the coming year's fabrics and floor coverings. Of color blending machines, your local paint dealer can give you just the right shades and colors for up-to-date decorating. So, if you care to play follow-the-leader in your own home decorating scheme, you should have an easy time of it.

Multiplexing Adds New Dimension To FM Radio

FOR over a century people all over the world have marveled at the advances in electronic communications.

In 1844 the first telegraph message was sent from Washington to Baltimore, and in 1896 Marconi announced his first wireless transmission over a distance of one and three quarter miles.

A patent on the television iconoscope was filed in 1923, and this too of the twenties and thirties became a commercial reality in the forties and fifties.

About the same time that television was being developed, work was also being conducted on a new type of radio ... frequency modulation of "FM". By using this frequency modulation system, new tone and depth was added to sound broadcasting.

During the past few years an even more dramatic advancement has been developed in radio technology ... FM multiplexing. Over 200 FM stations across the country have now added new equipment that permits them to broadcast two separate audio channels on the same frequency.

Those who own a conventional FM receiver will notice no difference, but on a multiplex receiver the signals will be re-separated and the listener treated to the finest in stereophonic sound.

Contrary to popular opinion, FM multiplex receivers cost little more than conventional sets. There are several new FM receivers on the market with multiplex built in, and many others that offer the feature as an extra.

For example, Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s Silvertone line has a built-in FM multiplex in console stereo FM-AM radio phonograph combinations. In addition, the Silvertone line also offers a table model FM receiver with built-in multiplex and extension speaker.

While FM stereo is just one year old, it is growing rapidly and offers America's listening public a new thrill in listening pleasure.

See these and other phonographs for Christmas giving at Sears, Roebuck & Co., Main St., Stroudsburg.

Choosing the right paint is essential. If you're painting a masonry surface, for example, the paint must resist, in addition to weather, the destructive forces of alkalis and moisture.

In addition, the paint should be waterproof, self-cleansing, adhere well and have a short drying time.

Over the years it has been found that paints based on synthetic rubber resins best meet these requirements. One of these resins, called Pliolite S-5, forms the basic paint film and holds the various ingredients together, providing effective resistance to alkalis and surface erosion, the paint specialists say.

House Paint Is A Sound Investment

SPEND money to make money? That is often the case these days when owners put up their homes for sale.

For example, a $400 paint job could increase a home's mortgage appraisal three times the investment in paint and labor.

Even if you're not planning to place your home on the market, painting still is a sound investment. A $400 paint job is at least a $100-a-year insurance policy against deterioration.

Putting off painting always costs more in the long run, according to paint specialists at the Goodyear Chemical division.

ADDS TO LIBRARY — Samuel Lee principal of Tobyhanna Elementary Center, receives a new library book from Renee Court, president of the fifth grade at the school, in recent observances of National Education Week.

Interpreting The News:

K Says Braintrusters 'Make A Mess Of Things'

MOSCOW (AP) — In his report to the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, Premier Khrushchev in effect confirmed what Western experts have figured—some of his economic braintrusters have been making a mess of things.

The premier made these complaints:

1. Short-sighted state planning experts have opposed his plans for long-range investment projects, pleading a shortage of investment capital.
2. Others waste investment money by starting too many unnecessary capital construction projects and running out of money before they are finished.
3. Scientific research and industrial design talent is being dissipated by spreading it too thinly throughout the maze of Soviet economic bureaucracy.
4. Initiative at the factory level is being stifled by unrealistic production plans that in some cases force managers to fake reports.

Khrushchev disclosed that he has had some sharp arguments with his top planning experts over investments.

Khrushchev said the clashes involved his insistence on the development of a first-class chemical industry to turn out synthetic substitutes for steel and other metals, his dream of turning arid central Asia into a flourishing agricultural and industrial region, and his penchant for building monstrous hydroelectric projects.

The premier accused officials of Gosplan, the State Planning Committee, of "superficiality and short-sightedness" in the problem of expanding the chemical industry. Khrushchev argued that steel was no longer the basic index of a nation's industrial might and said that some officials wearing "steel blinders" were unable to see this.

Mentions Asia

The Soviet leader said the backward central Asian republics possess rich mineral deposits and that cheap electric power is needed to turn them to industrial use. He and Gosplan officials had had a "big argument" over the construction of the giant Klov hydroelectric project on the Dnieper River.

He said the economic experts argued that the power produced would be uneconomical and suggested the building instead of thermoelectric stations fueled with Ukrainian coal.

Khrushchev said lack of coordination had left many newly built factories standing empty for lack of machines. In some cases, available machines were awaiting the completion of factory construction projects.

Khrushchev especially complained about the lack of coordination of research and design facilities which he said resulted in wasteful production of obsolete equipment and goods.

Khrushchev said capitalist countries were making much more efficient use of their research and design talent.

Growers Warned To Mulch Strawberries For Winter

A SEVERE winter could blast next year's strawberry crop expectations, but County Agents John Withrow says the application of an adequate mulch does more to insure a profitable return than any other operation.

Using a 2 to 3-inch mulch of wheat straw serves many purposes. It protects weaker plants, prevents root injury caused by intermittent freezing and thawing of the soil, acts as a guard

Canada's Kidd Stars In Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
PERTH, Australia (AP)—Australia's record smashing swimmers and solid track field forces are off to a booming start in the collection of gold medals, but the sensation of the seventh Empire Games is a 19-year-old Canadian student who was "born to run."

He is Bruce Kidd, a wiry Toronto economics specialist who would like to make the world forget distance running beats of Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek and the Soviet Union's Vladimir Kuts.

"What a Kidd this is," was typical of the admiring comments from Australians who saw the Canadian teen-ager with seemingly little effort chop more than 20 seconds off the games record in winning the 6-mile race in 28 minutes 26.6 seconds Saturday.

Kidd jogged around the track for most of the way, occasionally shaking his arms to keep his muscles relaxed. Then, at the 22nd of 24 laps, he unleashed one of his blizzard bursts and won in a runaway from Australia's defending champion Dave Power.

At the end of the race he wasn't even putting hard. He plunged into the water at the steeplechase jump to cool off while the crowd of 15,000, held down by intense heat, gave him a roaring salute.

Kidd goes for the double Monday in the 3-mile race which promises to be a highlight of the games. He faces Murray Halberg of New Zealand, world record holder and Olympic 5000-meter gold medalist; Bruce Tulloh of England; European 5000-meter champion, and Albie Thomas of Australia, former world 2-mile and 3-mile record holder.

"I wouldn't miss it for anything," Kidd said when asked about the 3-mile. "Halberg and Tulloh are great runners. I am looking forward to racing against them."

After the 3 mile the slim trail looking Toronto runner may try the marathon Thursday or the mile Saturday in which he would face New Zealand's world record holder Peter Seel.

"I have split personality insofar as my running is concerned," Kidd said.

Eagles Take 28-14 Win Over Cowboys

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, taking advantage of loose Dallas handling in the first half, ran up a 21-0 lead and then staved off a determined Cowboy rally for a 28-14 National Football League victory Sunday.

Quarterback Timmy Brown scored two touchdowns and ran through the Dallas defense for 107 yards as the Eagles won their second game. They have lost 8 and tied one.

Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, riled by reports his poor season has been responsible for the Eagles Eastern Division cellar position, completed 13 of 21 passes for 342 yards and a touchdown.

Jurgensen started scoring in the first half by directing a 43-yard touchdown drive, climaxed by his bullet to Tommy McDonald in the end zone. Then came a series of bobbles by Dallas that threatened to turn the game into a rout.

Using all running plays until they reached the Pius X 25-yard line, Quarterback Sam Fatta suddenly uncorked a pass to Al DeGennaro for the second TD and a 13-0 lead early in the first period.

With less than two minutes remaining, Richard Fusco took to the air in desperation heaves, but after two aerials fell incomplete, he tossed another which was intercepted by Mike Weber who returned to the Royals five yards.

On the first play, Sam Fatta scampered around the left side on a roll-out for the final score.

Mets Are First--In Draft

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The New York Mets finally get a chance to be first Monday when they lead off the annual minor league player draft as the baseball meetings open.

First pick in the draft is the booby prize that always goes to the team that finishes last. The Mets qualified, hands down, by losing 120 games and finishing 60½ games behind San Francisco.

George Weiss, the president of the Mets, used to pass up the draft when he was with the talented New York Yankees. Now that he is with the "have nots," Weiss has been scanning the player lists for weeks.

Drafted 35
Last year at Tampa 35 were drafted for a total of $680,000.

Somewhere, hidden in the 36-page mimeographed sheets from the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, there may be some players who will help the 20 major league teams. About 2,100 players are eligible to be drafted, about 1,400 at the regular price of $25,000 each. The others are first-year men, who can be selected for $12,000 if signed before last December 3 or $8,000 each if signed after that date.

Naturally the first-year stockpile represents a considerable investment by the 20 major league teams. The players who get so much money that they couldn't be risked in the draft have been moved up to the parent clubs along with the outstanding prospects.

But the big league clubs, whose 40-man rosters may be loaded, have to take a chance with some who cost them plenty. Incidentally, there is considerable fussing about the so-called bonus rule that was adopted last year in an attempt to cut down on spending. Various amendments have been offered to tighten or loosen the rule, according to the thinking of the respective owners.

That will come up for a vote Thursday at the executive session of the National Association (Minors).

Even more important to the minors is a proposal to reorganize into a player development contract. The majors then would underwrite at least 100 minor league clubs which will be reshuffled into only three categories—Triple A, Double A and Class A. There will be no more Class B, C or D leagues.

Then the stop-shouldered former minor league baseball player found the range and won the next two games from Bluth, a former high school fullback, 238-205 and 234-173.

This left Carter more than two points ahead with only one game to play in the 100-game marathon which began 11 days ago. Although he lost the last game, 215-181, Carter still finished on top in Peterson points with 320.45 to 320.17 for Bluth.

This same pair had battled for the 1961 title with Carter also winning in a high-scoring match.

Carter finished the 64-game finals with an average of 220 per game. Bluth received $275 for his second place finish while Dick Weber of St. Louis had 313.49 points for third place and $2,000.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, the 48-year-old grandmother from Grand Rapids, Mich., won the women's title and top prize of $4,000.

Mrs. Ladewig, who also won the 1957 and 1960 women's titles, took the lead Wednesday, the first day of the finals, and never trailed as she amassed a huge lead over 18-year-old Judy Audsley of Kansas City.

Shortstop Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers, first major leaguer in history to steal 100 bases in a season, was named the National League's Most Valuable Player Nov. 23. Mrs. Marion Ladewig, the 48-year-old grandmother from Grand Rapids, Mich., won the women's title and top prize of $4,000.

Mrs. Ladewig, who also won the 1957 and 1960 women's titles, took the lead Wednesday, the first day of the finals, and never trailed as she amassed a huge lead over 18-year-old Judy Audsley of Kansas City.

Then the stop-shouldered former minor league baseball player found the range and won the next two games from Bluth, a former high school fullback, 238-205 and 234-173.

This left Carter more than two points ahead with only one game to play in the 100-game marathon which began 11 days ago. Although he lost the last game, 215-181, Carter still finished on top in Peterson points with 320.45 to 320.17 for Bluth.

This same pair had battled for the 1961 title with Carter also winning in a high-scoring match.

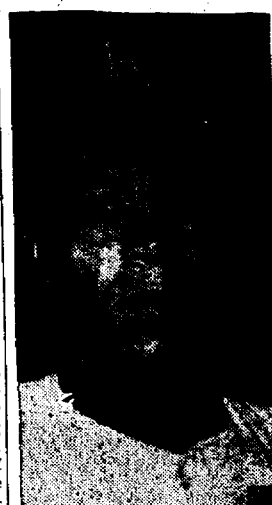

Carter finished the 64-game finals with an average of 220 per game. Bluth received $275 for his second place finish while Dick Weber of St. Louis had 313.49 points for third place and $2,000.

Giants Wallop 'Skins

WASHINGTON (AP)—Johnny Counts ran the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown Sunday and his New York Giant teammates went on to wallop the Washington Redskins 42-24.

The Giants all but clinched the Eastern Division title of the National Football League and a return playoff match against Green Bay, Western Division leaders.

New York has a 9-2 record, with three games to play. The defeat tumbled Washington to third place with 5 wins, 4 losses and 2 ties. Second-place Cleveland, which defeated Pittsburgh, has won 6, lost 4 and tied 1.

The Giants pushed a brutal defense with a well balanced attack and the sellout crowd of 49,129 Redskins fans had little to cheer about after New York scored three touchdowns in the second quarter to hold a 28-10 halftime lead.

The Redskins, with three key regulars out with injuries, saw Billy Barnes, their offensive sparkplug, leave the game with a sprained ankle in the first quarter.

After Counts' run, Washington held the Giants scoreless and Bobby Knyavt kicked a 27 yard field goal to make the first quarter score 7-3.

Then the roof fell in as Y.A. Tittle hit Del Shofner for a 20-yard touchdown, Phil King slipped over from the seven for a second score and Tittle connected with Shofner again on a 10-yard scoring toss.

For the game, Tittle completed 12 of 21 passes for 256 yards and three touchdowns, the third 44-yard toss to Shofner in the third quarter.

Washington scored on the final play of the half as Norm Snead tossed 15 yards to Bobby Mitchell.

The Giants scored again on Alex Webster's 23-yard run before the Redskins got rolling in the final period with rookie Galen Hall at quarterback.

Hall threw two touchdown passes to Dick James in the closing Redskins flurry, one for 18 yards and the second 38 yards.

Engle, who happily called his ninth-ranked Lions "the best football team I've ever had," declined to take a position on the bid.

"It's up to the school and the players themselves," he said. "I have nothing to say about it. I feel we could beat the

PMJ Schools Plan Bond Refinancing

THE Joint School Board and the Joint Schools Authority of the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools met jointly on Tuesday, Nov. 20 in the Junior-Senior High School, Swiftwater. The meeting had been called for general purposes.

The main item of business on the agenda for this meeting was discussion of the possibility of refinancing the March 1, 1960 bond issue, of the Pocono Mountain Joint School Area, at a lower interest rate.

This possibility was discussed at a budget and finance committee meeting held one week prior to this meeting. This matter had been brought to the attention of the budget and finance committee a few days earlier by representatives of Ira Haupt and Company, financial advisors for the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools.

Mr. Shulman and Mr. Wolf, representing Ira Haupt and Co., of New York, and Stanley Hope of J. S. Hope and Co., Scranton, attended the Nov. 14 meeting and reviewed in detail the proposed refinancing of the March 1, 1960 bond issue and the benefits to be derived therefrom.

These same men also attended the Nov. 20 meeting and at that time the representatives of Ira Haupt and Co. presented the following bid for refunding outstanding bonds, Series of 1960, Pocono Mountain Joint Schools Authority, Monroe County:

Statistics of Bid
Interest - Ranging from 2 1/2 percent to 3 1/2 percent.
Average Interest Cost 3.12 percent.

Net Interest Cost (New Issue) 3.27 percent.

The net interest cost of 3.27 percent on the new issue compared with a net interest cost of 4.64 percent on the March, 1960 issue. The March, 1960 (old) issue retired from sixty (60) to eighty (80) bonds per year while the new issue will retire one hundred (100) bonds per year.

The refunding of the March, 1960 bond issue at the lower net interest cost of 3.27 percent will result in a savings of $220,000 to the Joint Schools Authority and in turn to the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools.

The Joint School Board recommended acceptance of this bid to the Joint School Authority. It was later learned that on the same date the Joint School Authority had accepted the recommendation of the Joint School Board and the bond issue of 1960 will be refinanced at the lower interest rate.

YORK, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Canners Association, winding up business sessions of its 48th convention Friday, reelected Alan R. Warehime of Hanover as chairman of the board.

Jack R. Grey, York, was reelected president. D. E. Winebrenner, III, Hanover, was elected as vice president, and Miss R. M. Mears, York, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Elected to three-year terms on the board of directors: William A. Free, Jr., Hungerford; E. J. Sharpless, Kennett Square; Harry J. Martin, New Freedom, and Foster Furman, Northumberland. R. H. Pollack, Chambersburg, was elected to a one-year term on the board.

WILL AMERICA

LEARN TOO LATE?

Our lead in science and invention, in business, trade and world affairs came from learning how. Today higher education is the main teacher of our future leaders... in technical skill and in world outlook.

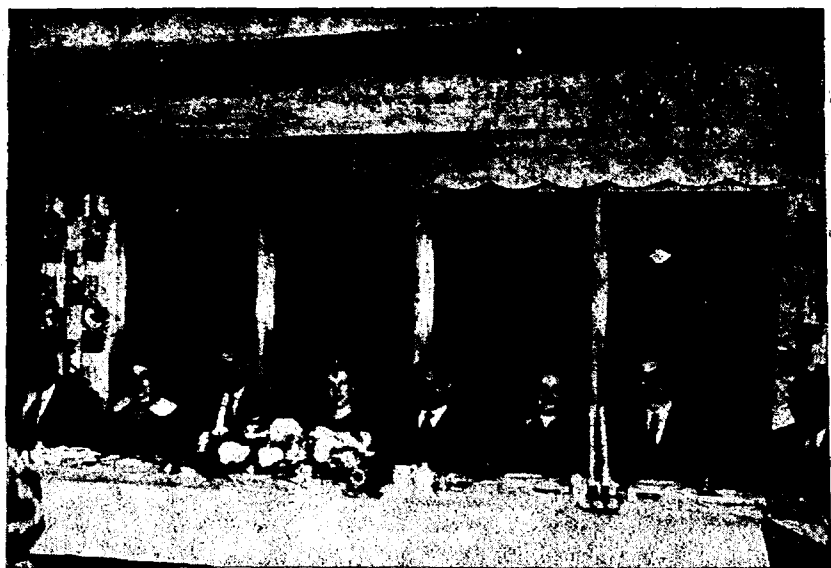

But higher education is facing a crisis. Colleges are in a squeeze. Many have actual shortages, while in less than 10 years college applicants will double.

If we are to hold our lead, our higher institutions must have modern laboratory facilities, more classrooms and, above all, qualified teachers.

HELP THE COLLEGE OF YOUR CHOICE NOW!

To learn more about the college crisis write to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, New York Times Station, New York 36, N. Y.

Disabled Veterans Must Report Income Earlier

THIS year's income reporting time begins one month earlier than usual for disabled veterans and the dependents of deceased veterans on VA pension rolls, Neville J. McMillan, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Wilkes-Barre, explained recently.

Along with their November 30 checks, all VA pension recipients will receive enclosed tabulating "please do not mutilate." It is important that these instructions be followed.

On these cards beneficiaries must report all income received during 1962 and that expected in 1963. Income means everything, including Social Security payments, except of course the VA pension payments themselves. Law requires the VA to use the reports to determine continued eligibility of pensioners and in some cases to make adjustments on the basis of increased or decreased outside income.

The most important thing is getting those cards back from the beneficiaries. Prompt and accurate reporting can save the VA — and the beneficiary — both delay and headache.

State Ahead Of JFK On Racial Edict

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania was slightly more than one year ahead of President Kennedy in banning racial discrimination in housing.

President Kennedy signed an executive order earlier this week which bars all discrimination in future housing built with federal assistance.

But the 1961 General Assembly passed a fair housing law which bars discrimination in all housing except double and single units in which the owner lives, or in all housing utilized by religious, fraternal or charitable organizations.

The state law also covers public housing projects and the sale of vacant land for housing.

State officials here feel the Pennsylvania law is more stringent than the executive order. Thus, they doubt the federal regulation will have any significant effect in the Commonwealth.

Guatemalan Air Force Units Revolt; Government Declares It Is Crushed

Pro-Castro People Pushed The Issue

GUATEMALA (AP)—Air force units revolted Sunday and sent warplanes on strafing runs at army barracks and the presidential palace but were quickly suppressed, the government reported. It said the rebels only by chance missed hitting President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes in his office.

A government communique asserted the uprising was backed by "money from Fidel Castro" of Cuba, Ydigoras' implacable enemy. It asserted Ydigoras, 67, an army general, directed military operations that crushed the revolt.

One of the attacking planes was shot down by anti-aircraft batteries manned by loyalists, the government said. The pilot was presumed killed.

Two persons killed. On the ground, the Red Cross reported two persons were killed and the fire department reported 30 civilians were wounded, mostly by bullets from planes attacking the army barracks.

The firemen said most of the wounded were children. There were no reports of army casualties.

Officials said only two planes of the Guatemalan air force took part in the raids, and that air force units remaining loyal joined the army in holding the barracks.

The government communique said the rebel airplanes fired on the presidential palace and hit the president's office, but that Ydigoras happened to be in another room at the time.

Other shots hit the rooms of the president's grandson, but the children also were out of those rooms at the time, it said.

The communique asserted that Ydigoras had the full support of the army and the situation was under control.

The government said four colonels led the revolt, including Col. Oscar Giron Perrone, often mentioned as a possible candidate in the 1963 elections.

The government took security measures, warned radio stations against broadcasting "captive information" and said all outgoing news dispatches would have to be submitted for approval.

This Central American republic has been beset by revolts, assassination plots and student riots almost since the day that Ydigoras took over as president in March 1958. These have been blamed on Communists or followers of Castro.

After the morning gunfire that startled citizens of this capital, life quickly returned to normal. Movie houses were open and crowds went off to see a match at the soccer stadium.

Armed police patrolled the streets. Guards were posted at the president's residence and no traffic was permitted to approach.

Last January the country's secret police chief was shot down and the nation was put under a state of siege—modified martial law—for a time. The next month a leftist pocket revolt along the nation's banana coast was crushed.

Widespread Rioting. In March, 25 persons were killed and scores were hurt in a rebellion which was accompanied by widespread rioting. In June, the government reported another plot to unseat Ydigoras had been uncovered.

In each case, the government blamed Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba, or persons supporting him.

(Reports from Mexico City said all flights between Guatemala and Mexico had been canceled.)

Ydigoras has been the target of Castro's rising wrath ever since the Guatemalan president announced last January he had actively supported the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban exiles on April 17, 1961.

The conservative president declared his government encouraged thousands of exiled Cubans to fight to regain their homeland and provided two training bases for the Cubans.

On Feb. 7, rebels captured a small army post and tried to seize the banana port of Puerto Barrios but were repulsed by government troops. Ydigoras called this uprising "a plan coordinated between Cuba and the Guatemalan Communist party."

Walker first became nationally known as city editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

He began his newspaper career as a reporter for the Austin, Tex., American. He was assistant city editor of the Dallas Morning News from 1915 to 1919. He left the News to go to New York.

Walker was a typical Texan and loved to dress the part. In Dallas, he carried out his city editor's duties at his desk with his five-gallon hat pushed back on his head.

After going to New York, Walker was rewrite man for the New York Herald Tribune—until 1925. From that year to 1928, he was night city editor. He served as city editor from 1928 to 1935. In 1935, he left the Herald Tribune to become managing editor of the New York Mirror, which he left after one year.

Walker then went to the old New York American as news editor, but after several months he resigned the post, saying, "I couldn't see how I could be of any value to them."

After stints with the New York magazine and the now defunct New York Woman, Walker went back to the Herald Tribune as editor and writer from 1937-39.

He left to become editor of the old Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger from 1939 to 1940.

CUBAN REFUGEE GETS ATTENTION — Young Cuban boy watches as Cuban woman receives medical attention on their recent arrival at Pompano Beach, Fla., culminating 16-foot boat trip which took six days. Eight escapees from Cuba, rowing most of the six days and living off raw fish, refused to identify themselves on U. S. arrival, fearing reprisals against relatives in Cuba. White House Camera Catches Private Moments Of First Family

WASHINGTON (AP)—Caroline, John F. Kennedy Jr. and their parents share informal moments with the public in birthday photographs issued by the White House for publication Saturday.

In a dancing mood, the youngsters were snapped showing President Kennedy a few gay steps as he claps for them in his White House office.

Kennedy To Leave For Visit

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President John F. Kennedy, winding up a long Thanksgiving weekend at his father's home, sets out Monday to visit military units sent to the Southeast in the Cuban crisis.

The President will spend almost 12 hours away from the White House on the military tour to bases and other installations in Florida and Georgia.

Among other places, he'll stop at Key West, Fla., only 90 miles from Cuba.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy attended 10 o'clock Mass at St. Francis Xavier church in nearby Hyannis, and despite chilly weather, a crowd gathered in the church yard to see them arrive and depart. Mrs. Kennedy wore a fuchsia coat and a black lace veil.

The President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and his wife went to Mass an hour earlier, and then took some of the young Kennedys, including the President's daughter, Caroline, out skating.

They went to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Memorial Skating Rink, an outdoor facility given to the town by the family in memory of the brother killed in World War II. Only they and their guests were allowed in since it was before the official opening hour.

Later, other Kennedys joined their brother Edward M. (Ted), who just got elected to the U.S. Senate from Massachusetts, and two brothers-in-law, Sargent Shriver and Stephen Smith.

Then the President drove up and went into the rink enclosure to watch the fun.

It was chilly, but well above the freezing mark. The rink ice is kept frozen by underground refrigeration.

Sunday was the second birthday of the President's son, John F. Kennedy Jr., who was left behind in Washington for the weekend because of a cold.

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, said the little lad's cold is getting better, and that he and sister Caroline will have a joint birthday party Tuesday. Caroline will be 5 that day.

Hatcher also said there were no new developments in the condition of the President's injured back which led to the visit Saturday of which New York medical specialist, Dr. Hans Kraus.

The President will visit Hunter Air Force Base and Ft. Stewart near Savannah, Ga., Homestead AFB, south of Miami, Fla., Boca Chica Naval Air Station and the Navy base at Key West.

In addition he will see other installations, including a Hawk missile base, during his travels.

The White House said many of the men sent to the area a few weeks ago when the Cuban crisis developed, will be leaving for their home bases, soon, and that the President wanted to see them before they left.

He will be accompanied on the trip by Gen. Maxwell B. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and by the chiefs of the military branches. Also along will be Adm. Robert L. Dennison, commander of the Atlantic Fleet, who is stationed at Norfolk, Va.

During the tour, however, the President's schedule will take him to combat-ready units of all the forces, and he will have time to talk with some of the men who flew reconnaissance flights over Cuba and the adjacent seas, with naval men who took part in the blockade, and with soldiers in tank units, missile batteries and others.

The photo marks the occasion of John's second birthday Sunday and Caroline's fifth birthday next Tuesday.

The scene with the President was taken in his office, which usually is accustomed to much more formal activities.

It was taken in October by "a White House photographer," whose identity was withheld by the White House.

The President, with a free moment on his hands, is reported to have looked out of his office window and spotted his two children playing on the south lawn nearby. He called them in, and Caroline and John Jr. put on an impromptu show.

The music came "from their own heads," said an eyewitness, and the President gave them a helping hand by clapping in rhythm.

While all this was going on, it was reported the President noticed the White House photographer in a corridor outside and called him in to snap the scene.

Apparently, the Kennedys liked the photo so much they decided to issue copies to the press in conjunction with the birthdays.

DeGaulle Receives Another Victory At Election Polls

PARIS (AP) — French voters gave President Charles de Gaulle a ringing victory in Sunday's national elections as the Union for a New Republic—the main pillar of Gaullist support—captured the largest number of seats ever won by a single party in the French National Assembly.

The Union for a New Republic—UNR—failed by a narrow margin, however, of winning the full assembly majority that has eluded every political party in French history. Local alliances between Communists and Socialists blocked the UNR's bid for an unprecedented majority.

But De Gaulle was assured of a solid working majority through a coalition of the UNR and other deputies elected under different party labels with the support of Gaullist organizations.

Unofficial returns Monday covering 473 seats decided out of the 481 in France and overseas areas—including 103 decided in first-round balloting last Sunday—gave the UNR 231; Independent-Peasants 51; Socialists 67; Radical Socialists and allies 38; Popular Republican Movement — MRP 38; Communists 41; and minor parties 7.

A majority is 241. The local alliances between Socialists and Communists, hastily formed after Gaullists made surprisingly strong gains in first-round balloting, seemed to have blocked the UNR's bid for a clear-cut majority in Parliament.

In first-round voting last week, when a majority was needed for election, the Socialists and Communists supported different candidates in many districts. In the final round, when only a plurality was needed, the two leftist parties often were supporting a single candidate.

One of the victims of a Communist-Socialist alliance was the leading Gaullist, former Premier Michel Debre, Fernand Berthoin, a Radical Socialist garage owner, defeated Debre in the Loire Valley after the Communist candidate withdrew.

Former Premier Guy Mollet, secretary-general of the Socialist party, was re-elected in northern France, aided by the withdrawal of his Communist opponent and an enthusiastic Communist campaign in favor of their old enemy "Comrade Mollet." Former Socialist Minister Jules Moch also owed his election to Communist votes transferred to him after the Red candidate stepped aside.

Needed Votes. Another who survived due to Communist support was Canon Felix Kir, Roman Catholic priest who is mayor of Dijon and dean of the National Assembly. Canon Kir insisted that he had not asked for the Red help, but he needed the votes to defeat his UNR opponent.

Gaston Defferre, Socialist mayor of Marseille, who spurned any kind of deal with the Communists, was elected anyway.

The Communists and Socialists made their trades in a last-ditch effort to stop the Gaullist onslaught. Mollet, who has a long record of battling the Reds on the political front, contended that the menace of Gaullist personal power was the greatest danger of the moment and he was willing to switch tactics to try to reduce this danger. He denied, however, that these tactics signalled a change in his anti-Communist policies.

be submitted to the state Department of Public Instruction by Jan. 1. After that, the department would plan consolidation.

Gov.-elect William W. Scranton, a Republican, has called for a one-year moratorium on reorganization.

The newspaper said no legislators polled oppose school reorganization. It said they agree something must be done to put local school districts in Pennsylvania in step with modern school needs.

The Bulletin listed what it called three directions in legislative thought: repeal, amendment, moratorium.

Rep. Guy A. Kistler, R-Cumberland, said he will introduce a bill calling for a one-year moratorium.

Lt. Gov.-elect Raymond Shafer, who helped pass the law in 1961, said the moratorium is needed to permit differences of opinion to be resolved.

Outright repeal is favored by Sens. Stanley G. Stroup and Robert O. Beers, and Rep. John Hope. They intend to introduce bills calling for repeal, the Bulletin said.

Sen. Charles R. Weiner, Philadelphia Democrat, says he will fight repeal and will support new legislation to supplement and amend the law.

Committee Named To Spur War Efforts

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The new National Defense Council in its first meeting Sunday named two committees to spur the war effort on the Himalayan front, where a Chinese Communist cease-fire is in its fourth day.

With Prime Minister Nehru presiding, the council summoned the nation's leading generals to man the most important group, a nine-member military affairs committee.

Named To Committee. Gen. K. S. Thimmaya, one of the most respected Indian officers, was named to the committee as was another former commander in chief of the army, Gen. Mahabir Rajendra Singh. Three chiefs of staff and three other senior service officers were appointed.

The ninth member and chairman is Y. B. Chavan, the energetic new defense minister named Oct. 31 to succeed the controversial V. K. Krishna Menon. Menon was blamed for failure to provide adequate arms to meet the Red Chinese invasion.

The second committee of seven members is assigned to the task of building and guiding the national will to resist the Chinese Communist aggression.

Headed by Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, the committee includes Nehru's daughter, Indira Gandhi. She was in northeast India checking on the progress of the return of civilians who had fled south before the advancing Chinese divisions.

Army Units Cut Off. A dispatch from the northeast said Indian army units cut off when the Chinese broke through the Himalayan defenses still are filtering back to the Indian lines. Other Indian troops were regrouping and were alert for any new Chinese thrust, the dispatch said.

Though Indian patrols tacitly observed the Peking-inspired truce, the Indian government sniped verbally at Red China. A spokesman accused Premier Chou En-lai's regime of causing confusion in the border dispute with statements that have no relation to reality.

Military chiefs of U.S. and British missions flew to northeast India for an on-the-spot study of the war and discussions with Indian commanders concerning additional equipment and supplies that this nation wants from the Western powers.

U.S. Gen. Paul D. Adams and Gen. Sir Richard Hull, chief of Britain's Imperial General Staff, were accompanied by Indian officers on a flight to Tezpur, a northern Assam city 30 miles from Communist lines in the Himalayan foothills.

They planned to confer with Lt. Gen. B. M. Kaul, the Indian commander, and tour some advanced areas. Other Western officers visited Indian air force stations.

The military teams are offering advice out of experience of fighting the Chinese in Korea as well as studying material needs of the battered Indian armed forces.

Chief diplomats of the missions—U.S. Asst. Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman and British Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys — had separate meetings with India's finance minister, Morarji Desai.

Terms on which India is buying or leasing modern Western weapons and transport may have come under discussion. The terms never have been announced.

Twelve big transport planes, maintained and flown by Americans, are among the U.S. contributions.

Informed sources said India is sending two officials to Africa to explain its position on the Chinese terms. They reported R. K. Nehru, secretary general of the Foreign Ministry, and Asoke K. Sen, law minister, are going Tuesday to Cairo and later to Accra, Ghana.

This mission was interpreted as possible preparation for formal Indian rejection of conditions in Peking's proclamation of the cease-fire and a projected withdrawal of both sides behind their lines of actual control of Nov. 7, 1959.

The government wants some of the more vocal nonaligned nations to understand why it feels unable to accept the conditions and may have to go on fighting.

They went to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Memorial Skating Rink, an outdoor facility given to the town by the family in memory of the brother killed in World War II. Only they and their guests were allowed in since it was before the official opening hour.

Later, other Kennedys joined their brother Edward M. (Ted), who just got elected to the U.S. Senate from Massachusetts, and two brothers-in-law, Sargent Shriver and Stephen Smith.

TEZPUR, India (AP) — The night is fading now and life is beginning to return to normal in this northern Assam city, just 30 miles from the Chinese Communist lines.

The dusty, winding roads of southern Assam were crowded Saturday with hundreds of refugees returning to the homes they fled early last week when it seemed Red China's divisions would sweep across the Assam plains from the Himalayan foothills to the Brahmaputra River.

The wealthy headed for Tezpur in hired cars and planes. Many of the poor jammed aboard buses, packing their meager belongings on top for the long haul. Others hiked.

Civilian authorities ordered a battalion of 700 armed police to this still half-deserted city to allay public fears and prevent possible looting.

Deputy Commissioner Rana K. D. Singh said about 30 escaped prisoners have been rounded up and all inmates of a mental asylum who were released are now back in custody.

Singh said scores of prisoners vaulted over the jail wall with bamboo poles after some 200 trustees had been released to flee before the possible Chinese assault on Tezpur. The rest escaped by bursting out the gate.

All government offices have reopened, but are understaffed. Telephones and other public services were back to normal except for the Tezpur branch of the State Bank of India.

The bank emptied its treasury and burned all its rupee notes Tuesday night to prevent the currency from falling into Chinese hands. Singh said notes destroyed in the bonfire had a face value of almost $500,000. The bank is now awaiting a shipment of new money.

Indian airlines resumed flights Friday between Calcutta and Gauhati, on the Brahmaputra 80 air miles southwest of Tezpur. Crewmen tore out many seats to carry government cargo, but also made room for Indian officials and some Western tea planters returning to see how their plantations fared.

Going south, meanwhile, were caravans of mountain tribal families ousted by the Chinese before the cease-fire line was established in the foothills Thursday. Tribesmen were dressed in heavy woolen clothing and furs hats that left them sweltering in the glaring sun of the Assam plains.

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 10 per cent of the $144 million allocated by the federal government in local, state and federal projects under the new accelerated public works program has gone to Pennsylvania.

The Area Redevelopment Administration said its figures show $15,110,000, or 10.46 per cent of the money, has been granted for projects in Pennsylvania.

Only Michigan stands higher, with $15,701,000, or 10.87 per cent.

The public works program permits stepped up federal action in areas of substantial unemployment.

Fabulous Atomic Uses Predicted For Future

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spectacular new peacetime applications of atomic energy in the next 30 years, both on earth and in outer space, were forecast Sunday by Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

They range from a possible manned expedition by nuclear rocket to the planet Venus or Mars to conceivable limited colonization of polar regions on earth.
But Seaborg also declared that
unless a controlled ban is
achieved on nuclear weapons
tests, the same two decades will also see the development of "pretly frightful" nuclear weapons — weapons very advanced over what we have now.

Presumably including both the United States and the Soviet Union in his weaponry forecast, Seaborg said in an interview that:
In a world lacking a test ban,
the next 20 years would see the
creation of weapons having
"much larger (explosive) yields
per weight of material" than even our fearsome nuclear arms.

Two Decades Ahead

The 6-foot-3 Nobel Prize winner
was asked to take a look ahead
at the next two decades at a time
when the AEC is planning to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the achievement of the world's first
controlled self-sustaining chain reaction. That event, achieved in Chicago on Dec. 2, 1942, started
the first 20 years of nuclear progress, the AEC says.

Aside from forecasts involving
applications of nuclear energy,
Seaborg reiterated some predictions he has made about possible
spectacular developments in other fields, due to the fast pace of technology.

The next 30 years, he says,
might see the development of paper to the extent that "durable and fashionable clothes made expensively of paper will be widely worn."

Also, such things as self-lubricating metals . . . home-style electronic computers capable of figuring income taxes and family budgets . . . other computers capable of translating almost any foreign language automatically . . . and

"great progress in predicting
storms, earthquakes, and other
natural hazards."

In the atomic field — possibly within 20 years — the AEC chief
said he envisions:

"We'll be well advanced in
the use of nuclear power in space
both for propulsion of rockets and
for auxiliary power within orbit-
ing satellites.

Planet Journeys

"Around the year 1982, we will have already made, or be seriously
planning, a manned journey to one of the near planets (Venus or Mars).

"And we'll be using nuclear energy rather routinely in satellites
as an auxiliary source of (nonpropulsive) electric power.

"For example, by then, we'll
probably be able to have worldwide — television broadcasts relayed by satellites brought

directly into homes instead of the present indirect method."

2. Portable, compact, yet powerful nuclear reactors for furnishing both electric power and heating of buildings might open up
polar regions of the antarctic and
arctic to limited colonization.

3. Continued and ever-broadening spectacular applications of radioactive isotopes to diagnosis and treatment in medicine and to the
exploration of the mechanism of disease. Also, great gains in agriculture through the use of iso-
topes, including improved crops.

4. Superlong-lasting batteries for automobiles charged with nuclear-
generated electricity — and possibly even "fuel cells" for automobiles — that is, energy-producing
chemicals that could propel a car
for a certain period, then be revitalized at a nuclear power station while the car owner used a rental cell.

Miss Dorothy Wagner

Missionary To Speak At Family Night Dinner

A FAMILY Night Dinner will be held at the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg on Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 6:15 p.m.

Following the dinner, the annual Thank Offering Service, sponsored by the Women's Association, will be held in the Assembly Room. During this service there will be special programs for pre-school and elementary school children conducted by the Young Adults Class.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Miss Dorothy Wagner, who will present an illustrated talk on the current mission study theme, "The Christian Mission on the Rim of Asia."

Miss Wagner, of New York, is Eastern Area representative of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations in the women's program of The United Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. She returned in June, 1959 from three months' visitation of churches in several countries overseas where she observed especially the contribution of women in the life and work of the church and participated in leadership training for church women in Thailand and Korea. Brief visits were made in Portugal, Egypt, Pakistan, India, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and Japan.

From January, 1947 to June, 1950 Miss Wagner served as a missionary in China. The first two years she worked with women and children in Hwaiyuan, Anhwei. When the political situation made it necessary to leave that city, she served for several months in the office of China Council in Shanghai and Hong Kong. In July, 1949 on invitation from the church in Changsha, Hunan, Miss Wagner flew from Hong Kong, arriving just ten days before the Communist army entered the city; she served for a year behind the bamboo curtain.

Plan Water Gap Scenic Drive Study

PLANS advocating the proposed Delaware Water Gap scenic drive are being advanced with cooperation of the State Department of Forests and Waters and Highway Department.

In a recent letter to Stephen Matos, secretary of the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, Forests and Waters secretary, said:

"I am pleased to be able to advise you that I have requested our Division of State Parks to have one of their park planners visit this area at the earliest possible moment for the purpose of studying and reviewing the proposal. A report of their findings will be filed with this office and as soon as it is received, I shall be happy to get in touch with you and other officials who are so interested in this project."

Man Injured In Crash At Wind Gap

A WIND GAP man was injured Saturday at 8 p.m. when his car left the highway, two miles south of Wind Gap, crossed two lawns and ran head on into a tree.

John Fowlkes, 55, of 420 1/2 N. Broadway, was admitted to Eastern Hospital with fractured ribs and a possible punctured lung. He was listed in critical condition on admission but a hospital spokesman said late last night that his condition was satisfactory.

Plainfield Township Chief of Police, Donald R. Rohn said that Fowlkes was traveling west on Legislative Route 48036, which parallels Route 115, when his car ran off the right side of the road, and then over the lawns and into the tree.

There was no estimate of damage to the car. Chief Rohn is continuing the investigation.

Area Youth, Shot While Hunting, Dies

JOSEPH TANIS, 12, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tanis, Johnsonville, was accidentally shot and killed while hunting with his father late Saturday afternoon.

He died at 5:15 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Miller, Johnsonville, when he was carried by his father after the accident.

State Police, Easton barracks, said the accident happened at approximately 4:45 p.m. about 600 yards west of the Miller home, just off Mt. Bethel Township Road 165.

They added that the boy was walking in front of his father, who had just shot at a cock bird, when he apparently tripped over a bog which set off the shotgun he was carrying. The shot struck the youth in the center of the back.

Tanis picked the boy up and carried him toward the Miller home.

Two neighbors, J. Edwin Haycock and Larry Lohman, who saw Tanis coming across the field went to his aid. Lohman took the boy from his father's arms and carried him part way. Haycock relieved him and carried him into the Miller residence.

The boy was pronounced dead by Franklin H. Reed, Northampton County deputy coroner.

State Police conducting the investigation said Tanis was placed under heavy sedation. They returned to the scene of the accident and picked up the 16 gauge shotgun which put a hole two and a half inches in the center of the boy's body.

Greeley Man Dies In Rt. Six Crash

A PIKE COUNTY man was killed last night when his car failed to negotiate a curve on Route 6 in Blooming Grove Township. He was dead on arrival at Wayne County Memorial Hospital, Honesdale.

State Police of the Milford barracks identified the man as Rudy Laipple of Greeley, and said the accident occurred at 7:35 p.m. Laipple was pronounced dead at 8:15 p.m.

Laipple was traveling up a slight incline in the highway and rounding a curve in the road. Police said he failed to make the curve, continued straight, crashed into a utility pole and snapped it off at the ground, and continued until the car struck a tree and stopped.

State police will continue the investigation today.

Slight Injuries In Crash At Mt. Pocono

STATE Police at Mount Pocono reported only minor injuries in a two-car collision yesterday at 4:45 p.m. at the intersection of Route 611 and Legislative Route 45037, three miles north of Mount Pocono.

The drivers were identified as George Haas, 69, Newfoundland and Stella D'Allesandro, 38, of 305 N. Main St., Moscow.

Injuries to the drivers and a passenger in the Haas vehicle, Adolf Safara, Newfoundland, were bruises and minor lacerations. The three were to be treated by their family physicians.

The collision occurred as the Haas vehicle, traveling south on Route 611, made a left hand turn in front of the D'Allesandro car, traveling in the opposite direction.

Charged With Tippy Driving

CHARLES Mecca, 55, of 127 Walnut St., Dunmore, was arrested yesterday at 1:35 a.m. by East Stroudsburg Police and charged with drunken driving.

He was released on $500 bail to appear today at 5 p.m. for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Harold Larison, Sr., East Stroudsburg.

Police Check 2-Car Crash On Rt 611

STROUD Township Chief of Police H. W. Tebbis investigated a two-car collision yesterday at 6:30 p.m. at the intersection of Route 611 and Interstate 80. There were no injuries.

The drivers were identified as Frank Charles Mozer, 48, Ozon Park, N. Y., and Robert C. Brands, East Stroudsburg RD 3. Chief Tebbis said that Mozer stopped at the traffic sign as he was traveling north on Interstate 80. He then pulled through the intersection and struck the side of the Brands vehicle.

Damage to the Mozer vehicle was estimated at $200. It was towed from the scene. The Brands car, a 1962 sedan, was damaged to the extent of $1,000 with broken glass along the right side of the car, a broken windshield, and a bent door post.

Shed Fire Believed Set

STROUBSBURG Fire Department was called to 1153 (rear) W. Main St., yesterday at 2:30 a.m. to extinguish a storage shed that had been set on fire.

Fire Chief Nelson Lightner said last night, "The fire was deliberately set and the fire company and Stroudsburg Police are conducting an investigation. We will continue the investigation today."

The fire was located at the L. C. Swartz residence and considerable damage was done.

TYPICAL PLAN — This is a view of one of the basic designs used by the Post Office Department for new construction, such as the building which is to be erected at the northeast corner of Main St. and Shepherd Ave., Delaware Water Gap. The plan calls for 2,000

Bids For New 'Gap Postoffice Planned

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Recent developments in relation to the new post office building to be erected in Delaware Water Gap indicate advertisements for bids for the building will be circulated in December.

In a letter from Rep. Francis E. Walter, to Stephen R. Matos, secretary of the Delaware Water Gap Chamber of Commerce, Walter said that the advertisements would be ready "about the middle of December."

The site for the new building has been chosen at the corner of Shepherd Ave., and Main St., opposite the existing post office. J. F. Kenyon, real estate officer for the Philadelphia regional office, said that the Post Office Department holds an assignable option on the site.

Preliminary plans call for 2,523 square feet of interior area with adequate platform area and parking and maneuvering areas. Plans and specifications for the new building will be made available to prospective bidders.

The site option will be transferred to the successful bidder, who will purchase the land, construct the building and lease it to the Post Office Department on a long-term basis.

There are several basic designs that are used by the department. Each may be modified to the needs of the community based on the foreseeable future and with respect to the surrounding area and type of buildings.

Postmaster General J. Edward Day said that the new construction will have a beneficial economic impact on Delaware Water Gap by increasing the community's attractiveness for industry and commerce. In addition, the building program will provide jobs during the construction period.

Learn Held On Driving Charge

DARWIN H. Learn, 30, of Tannersville, was released yesterday on $500 bail from Stroudsburg Borough lockup.

Learn was arrested by East Stroudsburg Police and charged with drunken driving before Justice of the Peace Harold Larison, Sr., East Stroudsburg.

square feet of floor space. Preliminary plans for the construction call for 2,523 square feet, but may be modified to the needs of the particular community. The architectural details may be changed to suit the individual community, also.

Tobyhanna Section Seeks Resident Doctor, Dentist

TOBYHANNA — Residents of this Pocono Mountain community recently appealed for help in locating a doctor to move into the area and treat its sick.

The community has been without a doctor for the past 10 years. There has not been a dentist in the community since 1958.

The Lions Club recently asked the Philadelphia County Medical Society for help in locating a physician who will live and work among the residents.

Allen Pope, Lions Club president, said, "First things first. We must get the doctor, then we'll start looking for a dentist."

Until September, Mount Pocono, six miles away, had two physicians. Tobyhanna residents had become accustomed to driving there for medical care. However, one of the two physicians retired and moved to Florida. This threw more of a load on the other doctor.

There is a doctor in Gouldsboro, seven miles away, but he is employed by the Tobyhanna Army Depot, a mile out of the community, and is unable to spare much time in the town.

Getting To Work

While other cities may wait for the Federal Government to get around to passing out funds to improve their mass transportation, San Francisco voters have decided to unsnarl their commuting problems on their own.

The proposition was voted on in the city and around it, and the people voted to tax themselves for a $792. million system 75 miles long, including tubes under water and elevated tracks on land.

Those of us who live elsewhere can breathe a sigh of relief that we won't have to add San Franciscans' commuting costs to our Federal tax bills. And San Franciscans can be happy that they will get the kind of transit system they want and should have, without any dictation from political experts in offices at the far shore of the country.

Those experts, according to the director of the Massachusetts Mass Transportation Commission, already have created something of a mess around the country. Cities, because they can get 90 percent Federal funds for freeways, have been building freeways in preference to any other form of mass transportation.

Freeways are fine, in moderation, but they have certain disadvantages. They bring floods of additional cars in to the cities, and increase the problem of finding parking space. They also heighten congestion on the old streets in the business sections of the cities.

It has also been pointed out that elevated railways in cities created paths of slums through the urban areas, and that the freeways are having the same effect. Many like to drive on them, but nobody wants to live next to one. So property values and rents decline, and nobody who can afford to maintain the property is likely to own it or rent it.

Mass transportation today obviously is a serious problem for the cities, and just as obviously the Federal Government doesn't have the answers. Right now the District of Columbia is trying to set up a new mass transit system. Officials have been wrangling for years over what kind it ought to be.

Opinions Of Other Editors

In Defense Of Latin

Sometimes Latin and Greek are carelessly called "dead" languages, an adjective which would be indignantly disputed by many scholars and teachers in Philadelphia. It might also be challenged by those who agree with the epigram of an English apologist for classical studies — that a gentleman need not know Latin, but he should at least have forgotten it.

Both Greek and Latin are sufficiently alive today and countless lawyers, doctors, engineers and scientists use both, or parts of them, without being aware they are using them. Latin, in particular, has been called the master of all studies, because it is the servant of all.

The present liveliness of Latin is indicated by the long closed-door conferences of the Ecumenical Council in Rome, debating the greater use of the vernacular in church services and rituals. A sidelight on the discussion is the statement of Archbishop Paul J.

Hallinan of Atlanta, Ga., that he has heard the use of the common tongue defended by some of his colleagues in "exquisite" Latin. In itself, the fact that all discussions of the Ecumenical Council are carried on in Latin shows the ancient language to be neither dead nor sleeping.

More specifically, the official summary of the pro-Latin prelates' arguments says that it "tends to make one speak in a logical and rational manner and prevents abandonment to sentimental and romantic evasions." The precision, dignity and martial music of Roman oratory might be a considerable improvement on the vicious vernacular heard in many of today's political speeches.

This, of course, is too much to expect or hope for. A former Latin scholar of the University of Pennsylvania knew he was dreaming when he declared his lifelong ambition — to make a really great speech, and to make it in Latin.

The Pennsylvania Story

Bark Of The Watchdogs

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg—How loud will the watchdogs bark when the new Scranton Administration takes over the reins of office in January?

This is perhaps one of the more nettling questions facing Republican Governor-Elect William W. Scranton and his brood of upcoming new faces on Capitol Hill.

In fact it is somewhat of an irritating question, with equally irritating possibilities and answers!

Fundamentally there are two doghouses in which these "watchdogs" reside: the Department of the Auditor General and the Treasury Department.

Both departments are critical

"doghouses" from the watchdog standpoint—and the occupants therein can bark quite loudly and effectively if so inclined. Chances are good they will now be so inclined!

Reason for this lies in the fact that while Capitol Hill as a result of the Republican gubernatorial sweep of Mr. Scranton will be dominated almost exclusively by GOP elephant riders beginning in January, these two fiscal offices will continue under the banner of opposition Democrats—whose terms do not expire until 1965.

Curiously perhaps, these are the two most potent offices insofar as raising hob on the fiscal front is concerned—and with Pennsylvania running a billion-dollar-a-year budget, the hob obviously can be quite pronounced; quite news worthy and quite intriguing to the average nettled taxpayer who's footing the bill.

Routinely when these two fiscal offices are in the same political hands as the gubernatorial administration, the commotion or barking is virtually non-existent. When they're of opposite faith the howling is almost deafening.

For example, when Democrat George M. Leader moved into the gubernatorial pew back in 1955, Republican Auditor General Charles R. Barber was serving out a four-year term, while on the other side of the fiscal fence, GOPster Weldon B. Heyburn was busy guarding the Treasury vault. Neither of these two fiscal officers managed more than a few minor barks-in-the-night—apparently dumfounded into quasi-silence by the unexpected 1955 Democratic sweep.

In 1957 however when Republican Auditor General Charles C. Smith and fellow Republican State Treasurer Robert F. Kent waddled into the fiscal offices, the story became quite different. The fiscal watchdogs began to bark and snap with gusto at Democratic heels (shoe) in the then Democratic Leader Administration.

The squawking continued during the first two years of the second Democratic administration, that of incumbent David L. Lawrence, until ousted from office by Democrats Grace M. Sloan, the new Treasurer, and Democrat Thomas Z. Minehart, State Auditor General—both of whose terms run to 1965. With full-fledged single party control (Democratic this time) the baying watchdogs calmed down during these past two years.

But with the advent of a Republican administration in January the activity in the two fiscal "doghouses" can be expected to be stepped up considerably—as they watch with glaring eye the fiscal operations of their sworn political enemies, spiritedly challenging the Scranton Administration as it gets under way.

It happened back in the 1940's when three successive Democratic State Treasurers and Auditor Generals yipped fiercely at the Republican James, Martin and Duff administrations.

Are the years 1963 and 1964 destined to be years of repetition? Incoming Republicans are afraid so, knowing full well what happened back in the 1940's but also how they themselves barked when they held the fiscal bones more recently for six years under Democratic rule!

It is going to be a winter! Buying snow tires, testing shovels, clamping on ice-creeper, inhaling steamy anti-freeze, scattering sand over icy walks, drying out boots, fitting kids into snow-suits, sniffing and hot baths... but on the other hand it is also the hot-toddy season!

The cannibals stoked up the fire under the pot in which an explorer was being cooked. The chief came up and asked the victim: "Do you have anything to say?"

"Yes," the explorer said, "I am smoking more now but enjoying it less!"

Samos Cameras Altered U. S. On Planes In Cuba

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, November 26 — The U. S. now has a "limited" open-skies inspection system operating over the Soviet Union, Communist China and Cuba — in addition to those covert U-2 reconnaissance flights.

Five Samos reconnaissance satellites all launched by the Air Force within the past nine months and still in orbit, make up the core of this worldwide space intelligence network.

These satellites are relaying to U. S. "readout" stations excellent and exciting photographs of important military and missile installations in these three Communist nations.

The high-speed precision cameras of one of the Samos satellites produced the first "hard" information that the Russians had sent intermediate range ballistic missiles to Cuba.

While this unannounced reconnaissance feat is one of the most tightly kept secrets in the Kennedy administration, it can now be revealed that these Samos photographs were taken in September, or several weeks before the famous October 12-14 U-2 flights were made over Cuba.

These sensitive photographs, which are partly responsible for triggering the later U-2 flights, showed for the first time (1) aerial pictures of the construction of two IRBM missile sites, and (2) the unloading of large (60 to 70 feet long) cylinder-shaped missile containers from Soviet ships.

This information was immediately forwarded to McGeorge Bundy, presidential assistant for security affairs, and one of the few persons in the White House who have clearance to receive this sensitive information for the President.

After a delay of more than two weeks, Bundy sent a presidential directive to Defense Secretary McNamara ordering the Air Force to resume the U-2 flights over Cuba. These reconnaissance flights were stopped for more than a month because of bad weather in the Caribbean, and U-2 plane incidents over China and near the coast of Russia.

Dress Rehearsal — Another series of Samos satellite reconnaissance photographs taken of a missile testing area in southern Russia in July should have alerted U. S. officials to the speed with which Soviet military technicians can set up their IRBM bases.

These amazing photographs detail the erection of a complete IRBM base, with all its missiles and equipment, within less than a week. When an earlier Samos satellite had passed over the same site a week before, there was no evidence that a crash missile base build-up was about to start.

Later photographs by another Samos, which left U. S. intelligence experts baffled, showed that the base had been completely dismantled and all missiles and equipment removed within seven days.

While U. S. officials didn't realize it at the time, they now believe that the cameras of the three Samos satellites had caught Soviet military technicians conducting a dress rehearsal for their Cuban missile build-up.

These earth-orbiting satellites also are the basis for the latest U. S. estimate that the Soviets may now have more than 100 ICBM bases in Russia.

The latest Samos photos show 107 Soviet missile complexes either built or being built near major Soviet cities and industrial and atomic centers. One or more ICBM launching pads are part of each of these powerful defense installations.

Significantly, the Kremlin is keeping an ominous silence on these satellite overflights. U. S. military intelligence officials believe this Soviet policy will continue until its scientists are able to successfully intercept and down one of the Samos satellites.

That day may not be too far away.

Some of the most spectacular nuclear missile tests conducted during the recent Soviet series have involved detonation of nuclear warheads to intercept Russian satellites.

The results, as detected by long-range radar, have convinced many U. S. officials that before the end of another year Soviet scientists will try to destroy the first Samos in space.

More To Come — The Air Force's launching schedule calls for the orbiting of three more of these spy-in-the-sky satellites in 1962.

If this schedule is kept, three Samos satellites will be constantly in the skies over the Soviet Union. A ninth Samos will be orbited in January. When one of these reconnaissance satellites fails, another Samos will be immediately launched to take its place.

The Air Force is also planning to launch another Midas satellite before the end of the year. These satellites are equipped with infrared scanners to detect missile blast-offs and atmosphere nuclear detonations. There are now three Midas satellites traversing Soviet territory, although only one is working properly.

Note: In trimming the military's new space budget, Defense Secretary McNamara is considering cancelling Project Advent, the military communication satellite project. Already, the Army and Air Force have jointly spent more than $170 million on the project. If allowed to continue, the cost will reach $330 million by 1964 — the date of the first Advent satellite launching.

Inside You And Yours

If Leukemia Strikes

One of your loved ones has leukemia. What can you do?

Contact the local chapter of the Leukemia Society, if your community has one. They help leukemia-stricken families.

Many members are related to leukemia victims and so they understand. Let them guide you. They may have funds to ease your financial burden.

Transfusions, laboratory tests, hospital bills all add up. Leukemia Society volunteers also help buy, transport sick ones to and from the hospital and bring cheer to the bedside.

Unlike most cancerous tumors, leukemia doesn't grow in one lump. Its cells separate and spread through the system. Their growth rages out of all control.

Hardened Lymph Nodes They swamp lymph nodes which harden into swollen glands. They crowd into bone marrow where blood cells normally grow.

Blood thins into pale anemia as growing red cells are crushed. The leukemia steam roller smashes white blood cells — which normally fight infection. Germs strike and fever drenches bedclothes. Appetite fades and weight plummets.

Special clotting cells are also squeezed and crushed. Now, the lightest touch brings on giant black and blue bruises. A tiny cut may start life-threatening hemorrhage.

X-rays, radioactive chemicals and many modern miracle drugs help kill leukemia cells and restore marrow to normal. Bone marrow transfusions help when no normal cells remain.

To prevent leukemia cells from learning how to live with any one chemical, the doctor rotates treatment in a medical round robin. Blood transfusions help buoy up resistance while antibiotic germ-killers fight infection.

But all this is merely a holding action until scientists discover the true cure.

To speed this, the Leukemia Society supports research and awards fellowships to encourage promising young scientists to work on the leukemia problem. They figure that many hands are better than one!

Dear Abby: Our son had only one more year before graduating from law school when his wife made him quit. She said there was no future in law. She talked him into selling on commission. One week they eat chicken and the next week they eat feathers. Now she says they need $1000 to get his teeth fixed — for "business reasons." How can teeth be important in business unless you are a horse? If she would let him finish law school, he would have something in his head and nobody would look at his teeth. She has made a horse of him! He's our only son and we love him. Should we give him the money?

THE OLD FOLKS

DEAR OLD FOLKS: If your son is required to meet the public, his teeth ARE important. You don't help children (some child!) to stand alone by GIVING them things. LEND him the money.

DEAR ABBY: We have a neighbor who is a nice person, but she has a 4-year-old boy who has long curls hanging down his back. He can almost sit on his hair and it is a pity to see how the other children tease that boy. Even adults look at him twice and wonder whether he is a boy or a girl. The woman is either divorced, deserted or separated because there is never a husband around. Some of the neighbors say it's none of our business, but I think it is. Am I wrong to worry about the child?

JUST A NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: No, you are not wrong. The mother is doing her son a great disservice. Perhaps you should become friendlier with the mother and tell her in a nice way to separate the boy from the curls.

DEAR ABBY: Although I am only 15, I am the "Dear Abby" of our block. I've helped many girls (and some boys) with their problems, but here is one that has me stumped. A girl (my age) is madly in love with my brother. He is 17 and he can't stand her. This girl tells me she can't eat or sleep for thinking about him. She says he's not good-looking, is conceited and treats her like dirt, but she is squeezed and crushed. Now, the lightest touch brings on giant black and blue bruises. A tiny cut may start life-threatening hemorrhage.

DEAR ABBY: We have a neighbor who is a nice person, but she has a 4-year-old boy who has long curls hanging down his back. He can almost sit on his hair and it is a pity to see how the other children tease that boy. Even adults look at him twice and wonder whether he is a boy or a girl. The woman is either divorced, deserted or separated because there is never a husband around. Some of the neighbors say it's none of our business, but I think it is. Am I wrong to worry about the child?

JUST A NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: No, you are not wrong. The mother is doing her son a great disservice. Perhaps you should become friendlier with the mother and tell her in a nice way to separate the boy from the curls.

DEAR ABBY: Although I am only 15, I am the "Dear Abby" of our block. I've helped many girls (and some boys) with their problems, but here is one that has me stumped. A girl (my age) is madly in love with my brother. He is 17 and he can't stand her. This girl tells me she can't eat or sleep for thinking about him. She says he's not good-looking, is conceited and treats her like dirt, but she is

X-rays, radioactive chemicals and many modern miracle drugs help kill leukemia cells and restore marrow to normal. Bone marrow transfusions help when no normal cells remain.

To prevent leukemia cells from learning how to live with any one chemical, the doctor rotates treatment in a medical round robin. Blood transfusions help buoy up resistance while antibiotic germ-killers fight infection.

But all this is merely a holding action until scientists discover the true cure.

To speed this, the Leukemia Society supports research and awards fellowships to encourage promising young scientists to work on the leukemia problem. They figure that many hands are better than one!

Dear Abby: Our son had only one more year before graduating from law school when his wife made him quit. She said there was no future in law. She talked him into selling on commission. One week they eat chicken and the next week they eat feathers. Now she says they need $1000 to get his teeth fixed — for "business reasons." How can teeth be important in business unless you are a horse? If she would let him finish law school, he would have something in his head and nobody would look at his teeth. She has made a horse of him! He's our only son and we love him. Should we give him the money?

THE OLD FOLKS

DEAR OLD FOLKS: If your son is required to meet the public, his teeth ARE important. You don't help children (some child!) to stand alone by GIVING them things. LEND him the money.

George Sokolsky

The Crisis Path

The American people have gone through a crisis without too much squawking; at any moment, it might have broken into a thermonuclear war. The crisis dragged on for a month, and became more dangerous when it seemed as though it might give way to a sudden calmness.

The real danger was the accidental incident, for both sides were poised for immediate retaliation. The spell was really broken by the Sino-Indian War, which seemed to Americans to be a by-play, but which, in terms of the Soviet Universal State, is a main issue. The question was whether Moscow or Peking would prevail; whether Stalinism or Co-Existence would prevail; whether the Soviet Universal State would be shattered as by an earthquake in the struggle between Mao Tse-tung and Nikita Khrushchev for primacy.

True, Castro gave Mao Tse-tung the springboard and forced Khrushchev to accept President Kennedy's terms, saving what ever face he could for himself and for Castro. He could not risk a thermonuclear war this time, not when the Red Chinese were able to move into Pakistan and wheel through the Khyber Pass and other passes into Turkestan and up from Peking into Mongolia and Siberia. It is always risky business, having allies.

I recall an incident which may clarify the point. Chi Hsieh-yuan was a Tschun of Kiangsu Province and Sun Chuan-dang was the Tschun of Chekiang Province. Between them lay Shanghai with its enormous revenues, particularly the illicit opium revenue. Chi was short of troops, having used some of the money set aside for troops, for private purposes, a not unusual custom.

Chi therefore sought for allies and found Chang Chun-chang, the Manchurian free - booter, available with an excellent army. So being a wise man, Chi put Chang in front of his own troops, so that if anybody got killed, it would be Chang's men. However, Chang, having been paid and being stationed in an area where he could seize plenty of revenue, stood still and bargained with the two Tschuns on what they would pay to get rid of him. I learned all about allies from him.

Khrushchev is learning much about Chinese stratagems and he can learn more if he will read the classic, "The Three Kingdoms," which, in my day, every schoolboy knew by heart in one form or another, and which, to put it mildly, shows with what brilliance a smart man does away with friend and foe, until he becomes the master of all.

President Kennedy may never become such an heroic figure as Teddy Roosevelt, changing up San Juan Hill, but he has handled the Havana - Moscow gambit with more skill than is even now recognized. His first objective was clearly to avoid a thermonuclear war, but to maintain our prestige and dignity.

There are those in our population who, never having studied Russian strategy and having no experts to assist them, are sure that it could not have happened. But they cannot deny that Khrushchev did manage to supply and erect a Russian base on the island of Cuba and that while our espionage kept right on his

Newfoundland — The Brownies of Troop 252 presented their "Troop Grandmother," Mrs. Ida Megargle, of South Sterling, with a Thanksgiving basket, each sharing a little of their own Thanksgiving with her. Mrs. Josephine Woltjen was in charge of the basket, and she and Mrs. Emil Wohlfart, brownie leader, presented it to Mrs. Megargle.

On the 85th birthday of their "grandmother," the brownies also presented her with a gift.

Measles have cut down the ranks of the troop, and there were many brownies among the missing when the roll was called this week at Southern Wayne Joint School. The girls are preparing to act out the brownie story, which Mrs. Phyllis Jones read to them last week.

Games were played during the session, including the Elephant Dance, Coolie Jar, Indian Chief, and Charades. Cookie permission slips were collected, as a preliminary to the cookie sale in February. Plans for Christmas hand-crafts were discussed.

Arrangements were made to furnish baskets for the Deaconess Home to be given to the needy at Christmas. The altar flowers will be cared for by Mrs. Earl Dennis for the month of December. Mrs. Homer Jones will assist her with the Poinsettias at Christmas.

The Christmas party will be held Dec. 19 at the church. Dollar gifts will be exchanged. The Circle will be in charge of all arrangements. They had a display of hand-made gifts which they had made. 1963 Ford Falcon Has Sports Appeal

THE FORD Falcon for 1963 emphasizes sports appeal with five new models, new styling and a host of new features. The Falcon offers 17 model choices for 1963 — more than any other compact line in the industry.

New Falcon models, all in the sporty Futura series, include a four-door sedan and two convertibles.

Sharply reduced maintenance features new for 1963 include 36,000-mile chassis lubrication interval (up from every 1,000 miles), elimination of the traditional 1,000-mile new car inspection and self-adjusting brakes.

Frank Weller of Haynes Motors

said that, coupled with a 6,000-mile oil change interval, "This means that from the time a Falcon rolls out of the dealership, no routine maintenance is required for 6,000 miles — about six months for the average driver."

Power steering will be available as an option. Also available as an option is a fully-synchronized four-speed manual transmission.

The sports flavor of the 1963 Falcon line is reflected in a new Thunderbird-type roof for all sedans and all-around styling refinements that give all models a lower, speedier look. Interior appointments are tailored with luxury-car plushness. Falcon offers fifteen different performance levels through various engine, transmission and rear axle combinations.

The Falcon Futura Convertible and Sports Convertible models are designed to offer year-round, all-weather comfort with modern styling, luxurious appointments, high durability and economy of operation — all at a price substantially below conventional convertibles.

The electrically-powered top is styled to give the Futura convertible a sleek silhouette, lower than other Falcons and rakish in appearance whether the top is up or down. Full-width vinyl-upholstered front and rear seats are standard on the Futura Convertible with front bucket-type seats and a sports console standard on the Futura Sports Convertible.

The Thunderbird-inspired appointments are completed with a non-glare rear view mirror bonded to the windshield in Thunderbird fashion.

New for 1963, the Falcon Futura four-door sedan combines a sports flavor interior with the practicality of a family sedan. Like the other high-fashion Futura sedans, the four-door sedan offers cloth and vinyl interiors with color-keyed, nylon-nylon carpeting.

Outside, the Thunderbird-inspired roofline gives the car a sleek appearance with sharply defined highlights.

Now the Falcon, like the other members of the Ford family of cars, literally takes care of itself. The traditional 1,000-mile new car inspection has been eliminated and 36,000-mile chassis lubrication is standard.

The 36,000-mile figure also applies to change of radiator coolant, fuel filter and air cleaner element. Front wheel bearing lubrication is set at 24,000 miles, except on the van-type vehicles.

The improvement is made possible by upgrading a number of lubricants and many Falcon components including, among others, engine oil filter, valve train, clutch linkage, transmission, rear axle, steering linkage and ball joints.

Christmas Gifts Galore At Cyphers

WITH THE passing of Thanksgiving, it will be just a short time until Christmas is upon us... and when it comes to Christmas "Gifting," you'll find Cyphers Electric, Bartonsville, has a lot to offer.

Appliances have come to mean a lot at Christmas as they serve a two-fold purpose... as an expression of love for the happy recipient as an initial gift and also for the reason that this gift keeps giving year in and year out, saving much hard work.

A G. E. dishwasher, for instance, will delight any lucky woman at Christmas but the real "payoff" is that she will have extra time to join the family at night when everyone is home.

A new G. E. clothes dryer will do the same thing but even more, will protect her from getting colds that occur from hanging things out in cold weather.

For a gift to bring smiles to the faces of the whole family try a new General Electric stereo or color television. These popular gifts will be your family circle together and bring many pleasant moments.

This Christmas, when you think of G. E. Appliances, think of Cyphers Electric, Bartonsville.

Now is the time to plan for that special gift and to have us lay it away for Christmas delivery!

Warm Colors Aglow At Design Show

NEW York's Decoration and Design Show is having a heat wave.

In this third annual exhibition, where over a hundred of America's leading interior decorators are represented, warm colors beam everywhere. In particular, one sees sunny combinations of yellow, orange and green.

Yellow ranges from pale lemon to deep gold and mustard. Green sometimes shimmers in bright emerald but seems to be favored in the warmer avocados and olives. Orange flames through rooms more abundantly than in any other year. Mainly used for accent — but in frankly large portions — it is paired to a soft tangerine, bright and bold as the fruit or muted with gold and brown tones to a burnt orange.

While these colors predominate, other definite trends can be noted: For one, a revival of the rich wood-brown and russet hues, often paired with blue or ember red. A surprise of hot Persian pink, used even on walls, and combined with white, black and red. The emergence of a deep, muted cobalt or midnight blues which, instead of being coupled with greens and turquoises as in previous years, usually is punctuated by the new golds and coppers. Slightly lighter blues, closer to Wedgewood, are seen, with white and buttercup yellow accessories.

The overall look is fanciful and fancy, with painted furniture in colors, white and gilt mixed with woods in profusion. Great dollops of white sparkle everywhere. To act as backdrop for the warm, vibrant colors, many walls are off-white, with beige or gray casts, or in pale tints, although some decorators feature citrus yellows, both lemon and lime and bronze-greens. Pure white is rare, except in instances where it is used in conjunction with deep, cool or bright walls. A smart exception is Ellen Lehman McCuskey's white-painted brick.

Remarkable effects are created by using many shades of the same color in a room. In one bedroom, for instance, greens range from a light spring fern to kelly, deep olive and green-gold. The effect, with white, is like a garden.

Since most colors are off-beat blends with a burnished golden cast, they seem to adapt themselves easily to the potpourri of furniture styles shown. These are of every conceivable period: Baroque, Regency, French, English, Victorian, Early American and a new stress on Mediterranean and Spanish. As has been the fashion for several years now, blending periods are mixed in the same room frequently for the contemporary look. Also, antiques and Chinese lacquered pieces in brick red, rust or black are scattered throughout. The bold, bright primary colors are reserved in the main for ultra-modern rooms, of which there are few.

These are the special areas of the rainbow you will probably be seeing a great deal in the coming year's fabrics and floor coverings, of color blending machines, your local paint dealer can give you just the right shades and colors for up-to-date decorating. So, if you care to play follow-the-leader in your own home decorating scheme, you should have an easy time of it.

Multiplexing Adds New Dimension To FM Radio

FOR over a century people all over the world have marveled at the advances in electronic communications.

In 1844 the first telegraph message was sent from Washington to Baltimore, and in 1896 Marconi announced his first wireless transmission over a distance of one and three quarter miles.

A patent on the television iconoscope was filed in 1923, and this toy of the twenties and thirties became a commercial reality in the forties and fifties.

About the same time that television was being developed, work was also being conducted on a new type of radio... frequency modulation of "FM". By using this frequency modulation system, new tone and depth was added to sound broadcasting.

During the past few years an even more dramatic advancement has been developed in radio technology... FM multiplexing. Over 200 FM stations across the country have now added new equipment that permits them to broadcast two separate audio channels on the same frequency.

Those who own a conventional FM receiver will notice no difference, but on a multiplex receiver the signals will be re-separated and the listener treated to the finest in stereophonic sound.

Contrary to popular opinion, FM multiplex receivers cost little more than conventional sets. There are several new FM receivers on the market with multiplex built in, and many others that offer the feature as an extra.

For example, Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s Silvertone line has a built-in FM multiplex in console stereo FM-AM radio phonograph combinations. In addition, the Silvertone line also offers a table model FM receiver with built-in multiplex and extension speaker.

While FM stereo is just one year old, it is growing rapidly and offers America's listening public a new thrill in listening pleasure.

See these and other phonographs for Christmas giving at Sears, Roebuck & Co., Main St., Stroudsburg.

House Paint Is A Sound Investment

SPEND money to make money? That is often the case these days when owners put up their homes for sale.

For example, a $400 paint job could increase a home's mortgage appraisal three times the investment in paint and labor.

Even if you're not planning to place your home on the market, painting still is a sound investment. A $400 paint job is at least a $100-a-year insurance policy against deterioration.

Putting off painting always costs more in the long run, according to paint specialists at the Goodyear Chemical division.

Choosing the right paint is essential. If you're painting a masonry surface, for example, the paint must resist, in addition to weather, the destructive forces of alkalies and moisture.

In addition, the paint should be waterproof, self-cleansing, adhere well and have a short drying time.

Over the years it has been found that paints based on synthetic rubber resins best meet these requirements. One of these resins, called Pliolite S-5, forms the basic paint film and holds the various ingredients together, providing effective resistance to alkalies and surface erosion, the paint specialists say.

ADDS TO LIBRARY — Samuel Lee principal of Tobyhanna Elementary Center, receives a new library book from Renee Court, president of the fifth grade at the school, in recent observances of National Education Week.

Interpreting The News:

K Says Braintrusters 'Make A Mess Of Things'

MOSCOW (AP) — In his report to the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, Premier Khrushchev in effect confirmed what Western experts have figured—some of his economic braintrusters have been making a mess of things.

The premier made these complaints:

1. Short-sighted state planning experts have opposed his plans for long-range investment projects, pleasing a shortage of investment capital.
2. Others waste investment money by starting too many unnecessary capital construction projects and running out of money before they are finished.
3. Scientific research and industrial design talent is being dissipated by spreading it too thinly throughout the maze of Soviet economic bureaucracy.

4. Initiative at the factory level is being stifled by unrealistic production plans that in some cases force managers to fake reports.

Khrushchev disclosed that he has had some sharp arguments with his top planning experts over investments.

Khrushchev said the clashes involved his insistence on the development of a first-class chemical industry to turn out synthetic substitutes for steel and other metals, his dream of turning arid central Asia into a flourishing agricultural and industrial region, and his penchant for building monster hydroelectric projects.

a nation's industrial might and said that some officials wearing "steel blinders" were unable to see this.

Mentions Asia

The Soviet leader said the backward central Asian republics possess rich mineral deposits and that cheap electric power is needed to turn them to industrial use. He and Gosplan officials had had a "big argument" over the construction of the giant Klev hydroelectric project on the Dnieper River.

He said the economic experts argued that the power produced would be uneconomical and suggested the building instead of thermoelectric stations fueled with Ukrainian coal.

Khrushchev said lack of coordination had left many newly built factories standing empty for lack of machines. In some cases, available machines were awaiting the completion of factory construction projects.

Khrushchev especially complained about the lack of coordination of research and design facilities which he said resulted in wasteful production of obsolete equipment and goods.

Khrushchev said capitalist countries were making much more efficient use of their research and design talent.

Growers Warned To Mulch Strawberries For Winter

A SEVERE winter could blast next year's strawberry crop expectations, but County Agent John Withrow says the application of an adequate mulch does more to insure a profitable return than any other operation.

Using a 2 to 3-inch mulch of wheat straw serves many purposes. It protects weaker plants, prevents root injury caused by intermittent freezing and thawing of the soil, acts as a guard against spring frost, results in grit-free fruits at harvest time, and offers a means of increasing organic matter when the mulch is mixed into the soil following harvest.

In most strawberry plantings date the Joint School Authority the latter part of November or early December. Application need not be delayed until the soil can support heavy equipment. Mulching strawberry plantings is a way of assuring the return of investment plus a profit.

Terriers Overpower Royals In 2nd Half

PHILADELPHIA, N. J. — The Terriers of Phillipsburg overpowered a lighter and outmanned Pius X Royals eleven here yesterday in the second half by scoring three touchdowns for a 19-0 victory while handing Coach Vince Shemanski's crew their sixth setback of the season.

The contest concluded all grid activity for this year in the State Belt and the Poonos. The game originally was scheduled for last Sunday and then re-scheduled for Wednesday but bad weather forced the delay until yesterday.

This was the sixth game of the series between these schools for the Knights of Columbus trophy.

Canada's Kidd Stars In Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
PERTH, Australia (AP)—Australia's record smashing swimmers and solid track field forces are off to a booming start in the collection of gold medals, but the sensation of the seventh Empire Games is a 19-year-old Canadian student who was "born to run."

He is Bruce Kidd, a wirey Toronto economics specialist who would like to make the world forerunner of distance running beats of Czechoslovakia's Emil Zatopek and the Soviet Union's Vladimir Kuts.

"What A Kid"

"What a kid this Kidd is," was typical of the admiring comments from Australians who saw the Canadian teen-ager with seemingly little effort chop more than 20 seconds off the games record in winning the 5-mile race in 28 minutes 26.6 seconds Saturday.

Kidd jogged around the track for most of the way, occasionally shaking his arms to keep his muscles relaxed. Then, at the 22nd of 24 laps, he unleashed one of his blatant bursts and won in a runaway from Australia's defending champion Dave Power.

At the end of the race he wasn't even puffing hard. He plunged into the water at the steeplechase jump to cool off while the crowd of 15,000, held down by intense heat, gave him a roaring salute.

Kidd goes for the double Monday in the 3-mile race which promises to be a highlight of the games. He faces Murray Halberg of New Zealand, world record holder and Olympic 5000-meter gold medalist; Bruce Tulloh of England, European 5000-meter champion, and Albie Thomas of Australia, former world 2-mile and 3-mile record holder.

Wouldn't Miss It

"I wouldn't miss it for anything," Kidd said when asked about the 3-mile. "Halberg and Tulloh are great runners. I am looking forward to racing against them."

After the 3 mile the slim frail looking Toronto runner may try the marathon Thursday or the mile Saturday in which he would face New Zealand's world record holder Peter Snell.

"I have split personality insofar as my running is concerned."

The Terriers took the edge in the series by virtue of yesterday's triumph by a margin of 3-2-1.

Although a decided underdog in the contest, the Royals nonetheless earned the plaudits of the crowd by staving off Terrier threats during the early portions of the game and holding the home club to a scoreless deadlock at halftime. But P'burg Catholic eventually proved too much for the Royals with their heavier line and hard-running backs.

Defense Stiffens

The Terriers drove to the 25-yard line of Pius X early in the first period before the Royal defense stiffened to thwart the first threat of the game. Early in the second period, the Terriers again pounded on the touchdown gates, reaching as far as the Royal five-yard line before being halted once more by the gallant line of the boys from Roseto.

Nearly all the action of the first half took place in Pius terrain.

The Royals generated a threat at the outset of the second half when they marched from their own 20 to the P'burg 35 before being stopped a foot short of a first down on a fourth-down play as the stout Terrier line held Steve Zegalla who got nowhere on a handoff through the forward wall.

Break The Ice

It was from their own 35, then, that P'burg launched its first scoring march, covering 65 yards in nine plays with Halfback Joe LaGullo crashing up the middle for nine yards and the TD. The conversion kick split the uprights and the Terriers broke the ice with a 7-0 lead.

The stronger line of P'burg was beginning to tell as the Terriers hit the TD trail again the next time they got their hands on the ball.

Using all running plays until they reached the Pius X 25-yard line, Quarterback Sam Fatta suddenly uncorked a pass to Al DeGeronimo for the second TD and a 13-0 lead early in the first period.

With less than two minutes remaining, Richard Fuskio took to the air in desperation heaves, but after two aerials fell incomplete, he tossed another which was intercepted by Mike Weber who returned to the Royals five.

On the first play, Sam Fatta scampered around the left side on a roll-out for the final score.

With less than two minutes remaining, Richard Fuskio took to the air in desperation heaves, but after two aerials fell incomplete, he tossed another which was intercepted by Mike Weber who returned to the Royals five.

On the first play, Sam Fatta scampered around the left side on a roll-out for the final score.

Using all running plays until they reached the Pius X 25-yard line, Quarterback Sam Fatta suddenly uncorked a pass to Al DeGeronimo for the second TD and a 13-0 lead early in the first period.

Mets Are First-In Draft

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The New York Mets finally get a chance to be first Monday when they lead off the annual minor league player draft as the baseball meetings open.

First pick in the draft is the booby prize that always goes to the team that finishes last. The Mets qualified, hands down, by losing 120 games and finishing 60th in the National League.

George Weiss, the president of the Mets, used to pass up the draft when he was with the talent-loaded New York Yankees. Now that he is with the "have nots," Weiss has been scanning the player lists for weeks.

Drafted 35

Last year at Tampa 35 were drafted for a total of $60,000. Somewhere, hidden in the 36-page mimeographed sheets from the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, there may be some players who will help the 20 major league teams. About 2,100 players are eligible to be drafted, about 1,400 at the regular price of $25,000 each. The others are first-year men, who can be selected for $12,000 if signed before last December 3 or $8,000 each if signed after that date.

Naturally the first-year stockpile represents a considerable investment by the 20 major league teams. The players who got so much money that they couldn't be risked in the draft have been moved up to the parent clubs along with the outstanding prospects. But the big league clubs, whose 40-man rosters may be loaded, have to take a chance with some who cost them plenty.

Incidentally, there is considerable fussing about the so-called bonus rule that was adopted last year in an attempt to cut down on spending. Various amendments have been offered to tighten or loosen the rule, according to the thinking of the respective owners.

That will come up for a vote Thursday at the executive session of the National Association (Minors).

Even more important to the minors is a proposal to reorganize into a player development contract. The majors then would underwrite at least 100 minor league clubs which will be reshuffled into only three categories—Triple A, Double A and Class A. There will be no more Class B, C or D leagues.

MOST VALUABLE — Shortstop Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers, first major leaguer in history to steal 100 bases in a season, was named the National League's Most Valuable Player Nov. 23. The 30-year-old shortstop stole 104 bases in playing in all 165 games, including three-game playoff against San Francisco, in 1962.

Carter Wins $7,500 And Bowling Title

CICAGO (AP)—Don Carter of St. Louis, who had won four of five previous titles, came from behind in the final three games Sunday to win his fifth World's Invitational Bowling Title and $7,500.

Carter, 36, trailed the 1961 runner-up, Ray Bluth of St. Louis, by slightly more than one Peterson point after losing the first game of the position round, 205-167.

Then the stoop-shouldered former minor league baseball player found the range and won the two games from Bluth, a former high school fullback, 238-205 and 234-179.

This left Carter more than two points ahead with only one game to play in the 100-game marathon which began 11 days ago. Although he lost the last game, 215-181, Carter still finished on top in Peterson points with 320.46 to 320.17 for Bluth.

This same pair had battled for the 1961 title with Carter also winning in a high-scoring match.

Carter finished the 64-game finals with an average of 220 per game. Bluth received $3,750 for his second place finish while Dick Weber of St. Louis had $3,499 points for third place and $2,000.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, the 48-year-old grandmother from Grand Rapids, Mich., won the women's title and top prize of $4,000.

Mrs. Ladewig, who also won the 1957 and 1960 world's titles, took the lead Wednesday, the first day of the finals, and never trailed as she amassed a huge lead over 18-year-old Judy Audsley of Kansas City.

PMJ Schools Plan Bond Refinancing

THE Joint School Board and the Joint Schools Authority of the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools met jointly on Tuesday, Nov. 20 in the Junior-Senior High School, Swiftwater. The meeting had been called for general purposes.

The main item of business on the agenda for this meeting was discussion of the possibility of refinancing the March 1, 1960 bond issue, of the Pocono Mountain Joint School Area, at a lower interest rate.

This possibility was discussed at a budget and finance committee meeting held one week prior to this meeting. This matter had been brought to the attention of the budget and finance committee a few days earlier by representatives of Ira Haupt and Company, financial advisors for the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools.

Mr. Shulman and Mr. Wolf, representing Ira Haupt and Co., of New York, and Stanley Hope of J. S. Hope and Co., Scranton, attended the Nov. 14 meeting and reviewed in detail the proposed refinancing of the March 1, 1960 bond issue and the benefits to be derived therefrom.

These same men also attended the Nov. 20 meeting and at that time the representatives of Ira Haupt and Co. presented the following bid for refunding outstanding bonds, Series of 1960, Pocono Mountain Joint Schools Authority, Monroe County:

Statistics of Bid
Interest — Ranging from 2½ percent to 3½ percent.
Average Interest Cost 3.12 percent.

Net Interest Cost (New Issue)
3.27 percent.

The net interest cost of 3.27 percent on the new issue compared with a net interest cost of 4.64 percent on the March, 1960 issue. The March, 1960 (old) issue retired from sixty (60) to eighty (80) bonds per year while the new issue will retire one hundred (100) bonds per year.

The refunding of the March, 1960 bond issue at the lower net interest cost of 3.27 percent will result in a savings of $220,000 to the Joint Schools Authority and in turn to the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools.

The Joint School Board recommended acceptance of this bid to the Joint School Authority. It was later learned that on the same date the Joint School Authority had accepted the recommendation of the Joint School Board and the bond issue of 1960 will be refinanced at the lower interest rate.

WILL AMERICA

LEARN TOO LATE?

Our lead in science and invention, in business, trade and world affairs came from learning how. Today higher education is the main teacher of our future leaders... in technical skill and in world outlook.

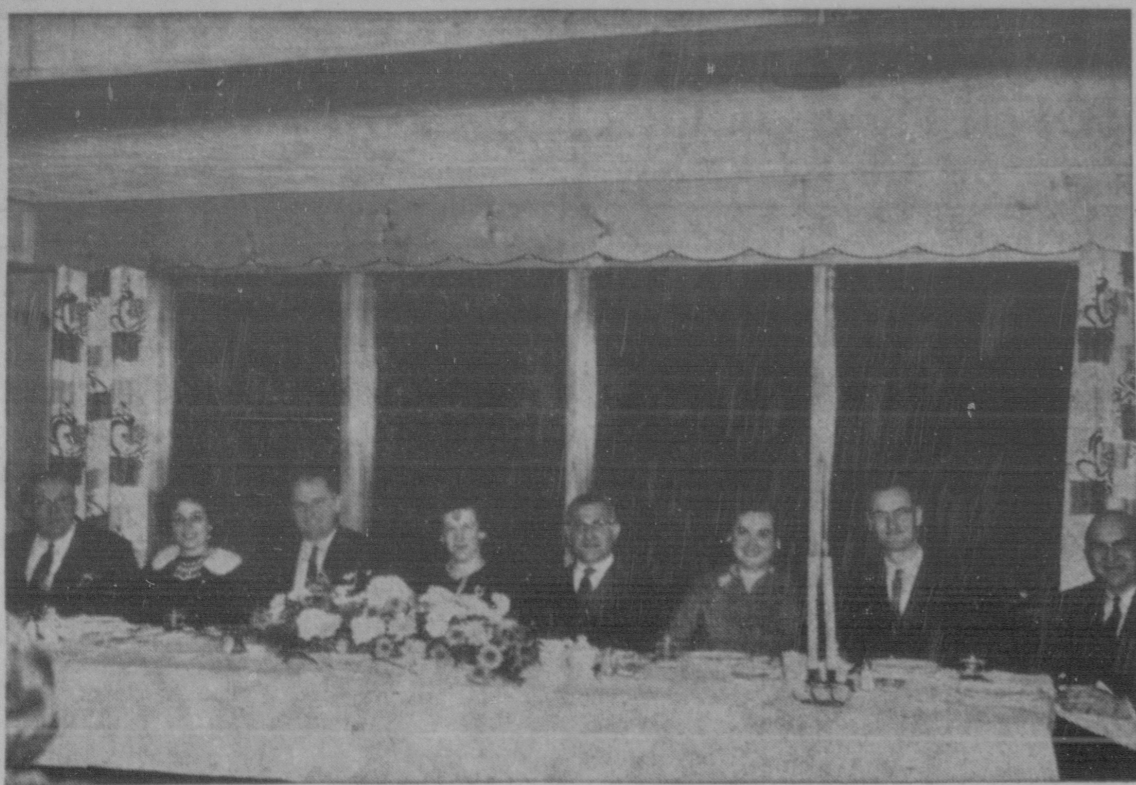

But higher education is facing a crisis. Colleges are in a squeeze. Many have actual shortages, while in less than 10 years college applicants will double.

If we are to hold our lead, our higher institutions must have modern laboratory facilities, more classrooms and, above all, qualified teachers.

HELP THE COLLEGE OF YOUR CHOICE NOW!

Disabled Veterans Must Report Income Earlier

THIS year's income reporting time begins one month earlier than usual for disabled veterans and the dependents of deceased veterans on VA pension rolls, Neville J. McMillan, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Wilkes-Barre, explained recently.

Along with their November 30 checks, all VA pension recipients will receive enclosed tabulating "please do not mutilate." It is important that these instructions be followed.

On these cards beneficiaries must report all income received during 1962 and that expected in 1963. Income means everything, including Social Security pay.

State Ahead Of JFK On Racial Edict

HARRISBURG (AP) Pennsylvania was slightly more than one year ahead of President Kennedy in banning racial discrimination in housing.

President Kennedy signed an executive order earlier this week which bans all discrimination in future housing built with federal assistance.

But the 1961 General Assembly passed a fair housing law which bans discrimination in all housing except double and single units in which the owner lives, or in all housing utilized by religious, fraternal or charitable organizations.

The state law also covers public housing projects and the sale of vacant land for housing.

State officials here feel the Pennsylvania law is more stringent than the executive order. Thus, they doubt the federal regulation will have any significant effect in the Commonwealth.

New Company

NEW YORK (AP)—A new company, Natinal Coal Mining Co., has been formed to mine bituminous coal in Logan and Mingo Counties, W. Va. National Steel Corp., Pittsburgh, and Island Creek Coal Co., Huntington, W. Va. are joint owners.

ments, except of course the VA pension payments themselves.

Law requires the VA to use the reports to determine continued eligibility of pensioners and in some cases to make adjustments on the basis of increased or decreased outside income.

The most important thing is getting those cards back from the beneficiaries. Prompt and accurate reporting can save the VA — and the beneficiary — both delay and headache.
